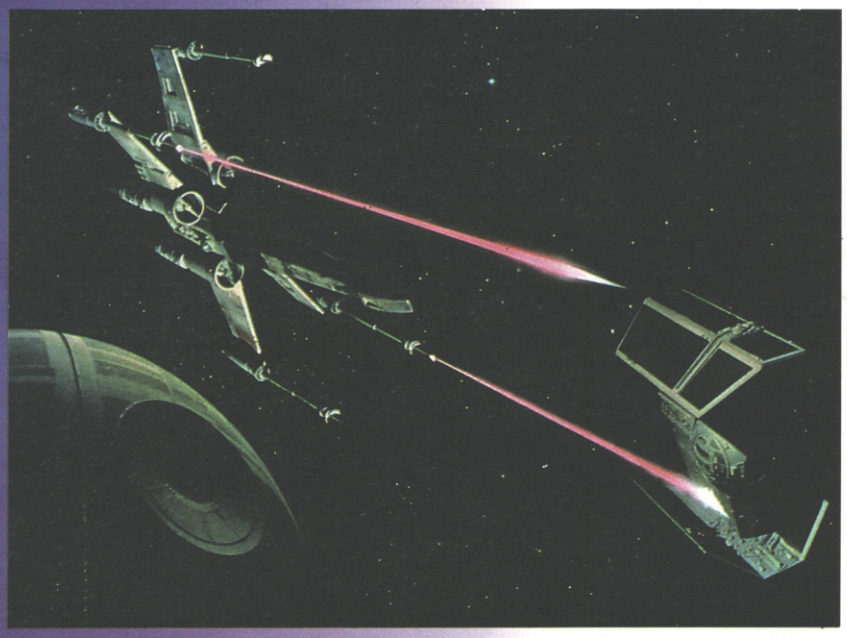
CONTENTS



8 WORD UP!
Why are the tears welling up in the eyes of the CVG crew? Because this is Tim's last ever Word Up - he's taken the thirty pieces of silver, shoved his worldly possessions in the lift and shuttled them up to the Fourth Floor. This is the place to find out why!

10 NEWS
Oooh, you'll never believe all the fab and groovy stuff that's been happening during the past month. New games, new machines, and lots of other topper laffs - all written about and given a couple of nice pictures by the best news gatherers around - us!

42 YOB'S MAILBAG
Not content with being rude and obnoxious to his faithful following month in, month out, YOB's back again to heap even more abuse upon that loyal, if slightly sheep-like throng writing to him every issue. Happy or what? We think not.

55 STREETFIGHTER GUIDE - PT 2
It's part two of the incredible CVG Streetfighter II Advanced Strategy guide! This time round, it's the turn of Edmond Honda, the ravishing Chun Li and big boss Vega to get the full treatment from the best streetfighters in the business - the hard-hitting CVG boys!

66 CHEAT MODE
Although not terribly happy with being likened to Eastenders' very own rough diamond Nick Cotton, Paul Anglin has kept his pecker up and got on with bringing you the finest hints and tips, including part two of his very own Actraiser solution. Check your food though, Mrs Anglin - you never know what the saucy young whippersnapper's put in there!

74 HIGH SCORES
Got a score? Is it high? REALLY high? Then why not jot it down on one of our nice forms and send it to the hot chick with the hard kick - CVG's hard hi-scorer, Sadie! She'll sort you out...

98 ARCADE ACTION
Ah ha, but it's not coin-ops this issue! The CVG boys hot-footed it down to Data East HQ for an ultra-sneaky peek at a brill pinball table set to take the world by storm - Star Wars! Grab a butchers at that top Exclusive Review, if you will!

MEGADRIVE

32 WORLD OF ILLUSION STARRING MICKEY AND DONALD
Mickey's back! And this time, he's brought a friend - and he's quackers! It's Mickey and Donald, out to prove that there is life after the bloody awful Fantasia - and don't they do themselves justice here!

34 CYBER COP
Virgin snapped up Core Design's ace computer hit Corporation, changed the name and shoe-horned it onto a Megadrive cartridge - and it's grand! You're a top-secret cyborg that's infiltrated the high-security headquarters of the Corporation in a brilliant 3D arcade adventure that'll have you foaming at the mouth!

90 BATMAN RETURNS
The man in the black comes to the Megadrive in a conversion of the lotta-lolly movie! The graphics looks the bizz, but is the gameplay a swizz? Why not find out by shuffling your funky stuff along to that Review now!

SUPER NINTENDO

20 SUPER STAR WARS
Look at the size of that thing! It's eight megs full of some of the most incredible game you'll ever see! Check out the astonishing Super Star Wars in a CVG Special Report!

26 OUT OF THIS WORLD
The name's changed, but the game's the same as the brilliant Another World! Become top scientist Lester Knight and battle your way through this stunning polygon-based arcade spectacular!

36 SUPER MARIO KART
Mario and his pals get together for a bit of go-carting! 3D thrills and spills for one or two players abound in this smashing, thrash ing game!

82 MARIO PAINT

Think you're a better artist than Jon Billington? Not very hard really, but prove it on your Super Nintendo with Mario Paint - a brand new art package, complete with a mouse which gives budding Picassos a chance to, erm, paint!

88 KA-BLOOEY

Bombs away! The great Amiga arcade thinker Bombuzal comes to the mighty Nintendo, gets a crap new name yet still manages to impress the parts other strategic blasts just cannot reach!

108 DUNGEON MASTER

It's computer-to-console conversions ahoy this month! The mother of all RPGs returns to our screens, this time in cartridge form, to amaze and excite a whole new generation of gamers. Find out all about it in an Exclusive Hotshot!

MASTER SYSTEM

24 TAZ-MANIA

The impressive Megadrive hit is shrunk to fit the Master System and, although the gameplay's changed slightly, Taz proves that he's a winner on whatever format he appears on!

28 SPECIAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIONS

Just for you, the sequel to Chase HQ makes its long-awaited debut on the little Sega! Blast the hoods and drive about very fast in this conversion of the hit Taito coin-op!

78 PITFIGHTER

It's the PITS! One of the worst conversions you're ever likely to see staggers its way onto the Master System. It's sad, bad and not at all rad - and we tell you why in the full CVG Review!

86 LEMMINGS

When they're not hurling themselves from high cliff-tops they're being converted to every home format under the sun! They're the Lemmings and they're appearing on a Master System near you!

92 NEW ZEALAND STORY

The coin-op that made New Zealand slightly less uninteresting than before is converted to the Master System - and eeh by gum, if it isn't a rather jolly little caper indeed! Tiki doesn't fly onto the Master System for comic japes and laughter - 'cos kiwis can't fly!

110 MASTER OF DARKNESS

Get your cross out and chew that garlic till you smell and are avoided by girls - because Dracula's in town! Quite why he's hanging about the river Thames is a conundrum we're still puzzled over, but what the hell - go and read the Hotshot Preview and figure it out for yourself!

AMIGA

106 STREETFIGHTER II

How is the 16-bit computer version of the hardest coin-op ever coming along? We popped up to US Gold's Birmingham nerve centre and got a hush-hush in-depth look at proceedings. And then we wrote all about it for you! What stars we are, eh?

110 NO SECOND PRIZE

On yer bike! After witnessing this latest game from Thalion, you'll want to! 3D polygons zip about at a frightening pace in No Second Prize, the best motorbike sim we've seen! You can see it too, if you check out the Hotshot Preview!

PC

22 X-WING

The lads down CVG way are saving their pennies as you read this, in the hope that they can all afford PCs by the time X-Wing hits the streets. It's a complete simulation of flying a variety of Star Wars spaceships into battle against Darth Vader and his evil empire - and it looks 'kin ace. Quite frankly, our jaws have never been quite so utterly dropped as they were when we first saw this, and you'd be sad indeed to miss it. So pack up your R2 unit and scuttle on over to the top secret viewing of what could be the best flying blast EVER!

LAST MINUTE COMPO: CVG has a new Publisher, but can you guess his weight? Is it: a) Not inconsiderable, b) Quite a lot actually, or c) Bloody enoooormous! Answers on a (large) postcard please to Not At All Small at the usual address and first correct answer out of the hat wins The Wodge's mystery prize!

EDITOR
TIM "NOT NOW" BOONE

What really winds me up is nosey neighbours, people who faff and fart around and every single thing about Challenge Anneka. Also, I hate it when people insist that just because you're leaving you have to tell everyone your middle name when nobody ever got it right and now there are TEN free games up for grabs to the first person who does...

DEPUTY EDITOR
PAUL "NOT SAD" RAND

What really gets me is people who throw away your collection of used ketchup bottles after you've spent ages building it up. I had seven empty Heinz bottles and one day my sad Irish flatmate just threw them away. Did he think to ask me? Oh no. He just chucked them out and now they're gone.

ART EDITOR
JON "NOT AVAILABLE" BILLINGTON

I can't stand it when you've got two Fourth Floor flatmates and one never washes up and the other never washes his feet. Also, I hate finding hairs in the plughole because I always think they're mine and I'm turning into a sad slaphead and if it gets any worse I might actually BE Paul Daniels.

STAFF WRITER
STEVE "NOT FAIR" KEEN

I hate it when drunks fall asleep on your shoulder and people click their knuckles and think it's hard and come up to you in the street and talk to you as if they've known you for years. People I really can't stand do all three at the same time...

STAFF WRITER
PAUL "NOT NICK" ANGLIN

What really winds me up is playing Paul Rand at Streetfighter 2 because he takes it much too seriously and threatens to sack me every time he loses. What's worse, whenever anyone comes up to watch us play he goes into a sulk and sends me down the shop so no-one will witness his complete sadness.

DESIGNER
JENNY "NOT AMUSED" ABROOK

What really winds me up is people who wear their watches the wrong way round, especially if they set their alarms to go off on the train and can't be bothered to turn them off. Another thing I can't stand is people who mash their dinner up and then say they don't want to eat it...

MANAGING EDITOR
JULIAN "NOT SLOW" RIGNALL

Gatso speed cameras really get my goat because they won't listen to any of your excuses, however hard you shout at them. Also, I can't stand people who hog the centre lane and drive with their fog lamps on. People like that ought to be kneecapped, and then something really horrible should happen to them...

WORD-UP!

PSSST! Want to know a secret? This is going to be my last issue as Editor of CVG (gasp!) and after 18 months putting up with this lot, who can blame me? Yup, after a year and a half in the CVG hot-seat yours truly is moving up two floors and into the even older Editor's chair on EMAP's rather brilliant Nintendo Magazine System. Hurrah!

As I write this a CVG successor has not been chosen, but fear not - I'm leaving you in the more than capable hands of Rand and the crew, who will doubtless continue to do, er, whatever they've been doing so well all this time to keep CVG the World's Greatest All-Formats Games Mag.

And there's more! CVG also has a new Publisher - Garry Williams. Now publishers are by nature quite shy individuals who like to stay out of the limelight, do their accounts and be nice to everyone. Luckily for us, The Wodge does not fall into this category - and rest assured that the new man at the top has already proved himself a top roistering CVG Boyo!

It's been a hoot and a half over the past 18 months, 78 weeks, 547 days, 32,820 minutes, 1,969,200 seconds we've all been putting CVG together and watched it soar while other mags came and went, all asking the same simple question: How DO we do it? Well, we're still not telling - so sit back, enjoy all the goodies crammed inside this incredible issue (what about that Mega Games booklet - fab, eh?) and then fill out the Word Up! competition form you'll find at the bottom of this page. Right, that's it. Boone's Away.

BYEEEEEE!

GAMESMASTER LIVE

THE HEAT IS ON!

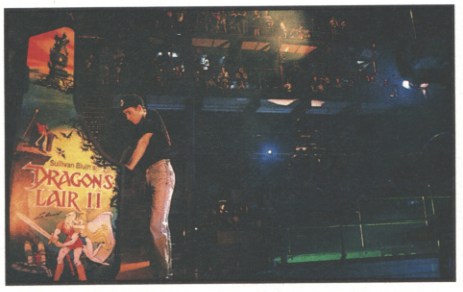
INCREDIBLE! Advance tickets for the Greatest Show On Earth, GamesMaster Live, have been flying out of the Birmingham NEC offices faster than Lynford Christy off the starting blocks! You'd have to be a jellied doughnut not to have heard that for three whole days in December your top mags CVG, Mean Machines Sega and Nintendo Magazine System are welding together with Channels 4's hugely successful GamesMaster to transform the NEC into a Games Paradise! The event is getting bigger and bigger by the day so hold onto your undercarriage as we give you the latest info on the entertainment event of the CENTURY! If you haven't booked yet you must be feeling rather sad, especially when you read about all this:

● The massive site will be filled to the gills with the very latest in console and computer games and hardware. Every major software company under the sun will be there, with massive stalls incorporating such amazing features as Virgin's huge Quasar electronic light gun arena, where players will be able to take on all comers, a Road Rash 2 challenge with champion competitors dressed as bikers and a (fake) tattoo parlour.

● There'll be huge monolithic video walls showing the latest clips from some of the best film licenses of the year, including Lethal Weapon and The Addams Family, two towering Helter Skelters and a massive Grand Prix simulator - The Nigel Mansell experience - with the man himself rumoured to be popping in for a rip around the track! Older fans will appreciate the James Bond shooting range hosted by the Bond girls and displaying one of the actual gadget-ridden Aston Martins that appeared in the films! Ocean Software will also be running a competition to win every piece of gaming hardware on the market today!

And we haven't finished yet. There will be a vast area of the hall given over to an amusement arcade featuring all the latest coin-ops from Japan, all on free-play! You will also be given the chance to jump into the future with a whole bank of Virtual Reality machines that'll emerged you into a complete three dimensional environment to interact with it's inhabitants and enter into weird adventures. A whole host of celebrities and TV stars will be on hand for photos and a chat, as well as GamesMaster boyo Dominik Diamond himself, who'll be hosting amazing competitions, game challenges and giveaways all day! You can even have a consoletation with the Games Master to sort out all your gaming problems!

● There'll be live bands, freebies galore and a special bargain retail area with all the best software and hardware discounts you could want! And, as if that wasn't enough, all the CVG, MMS and NMS boys will be on hand for challenges, helpful tips and just about anything else you want to talk about!



The dates to note are 4th, 5th and 6th December. Tickets are £6 and once you're in all attractions are completely FREE! With more incredible events being planned every day you can't afford to miss it so here are all the booking details you need. See you there!

NEWS

Sega and Nintendo might rule the roost in the gamesplaying world, but Commodore have shown that they mean business this Christmas, with the launch of a brand new member of the Amiga family! Dubbed the Amiga 1200, it's a home version of Commodore's incredibly impressive and recently released 32-bit monster, the Amiga 4000 - and, at a price of only £399, this could well be the computer to put the keyboard boys back in business. STEVE KEEN'S yer man to tell all...

THE NEW KID ON THE BLOCK!

IT'S GOT THE POWER

Computer giants Commodore have just launched their latest piece of techno-wizardry, the awesome Amiga 1200, at a star spangled press extravaganza. Every bignob in the computer world piled into the secret back rooms at Commodore HQ to see the incredible beast unveiled for the first time.The new computer is stuffed with the kind of high-tech features that would make a nuclear physicist go weak at the knees. The new A1200 is twice as fast as the current Amiga, with 2MB of 32-bit RAM which can be expanded up to 4MB and is their first venture into the massive 32-bit range.

COLOUR ME GOOD!

Although you'll see some incredible games appearing on it soon, Commodore have spent a whopping £3.5 million on TV and press ads making sure that punters realise that the A1200 is more than just a games machine. It can handle 256,000 colours on screen at the same time from a pallet of 16.8 million - roughly 16.76 million more than the Super Nintendo! And with a 32-bit processor running at twice the speed of the old Amiga, backed up by an array of new custom chips, the 1200 makes a lot of PC's look like crumbly old Spectrums! You'd think that with this sort of spec, you'd have to sell your granny's bonds to afford one; but at a paltry £399 - only a hundred quid more than the bog-standard 600 - you can bet that this mighty machine is going to be at the top of a lot of prezzie lists!

SAD BUT TRUE

Would-be-buyers will be pleased to know that software for the machine is already pouring in, with super-souped versions of Zool, Lethal Weapon and other such titles getting ready to fill up the shelves by Christmas. Every product seems to have the kind of mouth-watering graphics only ever seen in the arcades, making the A1200 the first of this new breed of machines to give the consoles a real run for their money in the games department. However, the bad news is that old software for use with the A500, A500+ and A600 machines will only be about 60 percent compatible, meaning that if you were to upgrade from your existing machine the chances are that only half your software will work. Boo-Hiss!

HOT NEWS FOR HEROES!

After the mammoth success that was Hero Quest, gamesplayers everywhere have been screaming for a sequel. Hero's Quest II - The Legacy Of Sorasil on the Amiga and ST. Well, rest your aching throats and scream no more, Hero Quest II is on its way! It's called The Legacy of Sorasil and, as you have doubtless already noticed, the graphics have been given a huge kick up the cat flap. The plot, as is the norm with RPGs, is thicker than Mrs Miggins' Aberdeen Porridge and it's guaranteed to take you months to complete. The main quest is made up of ten smaller scenarios and every character found has a specific task and purpose - no hangers-on here! Sounds like a right treat for one and all, and of course CVG will bring you more news as it comes.

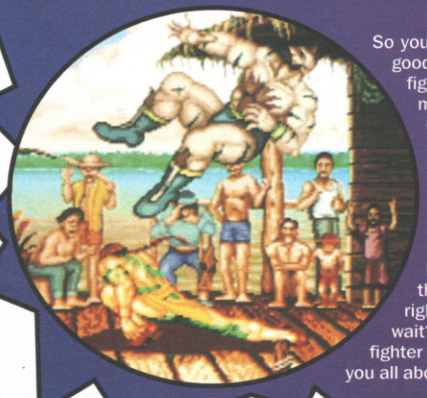
STREETFIGHTER II ON MEGADRIVE!!



So you're a Megadrive owner who's sitting there, thinking 'Well, my machine's a good laugh and all that, but those spawny Super Nintendo gits have got Streetfighter 2 and keep laughing at me. Boo hoo'. A reason to swap formats, you may think. But hold on a minute - perhaps you haven't heard that Capcom's coin-op cracker is coming to YOUR MACHINE! And that's not all; they're only going and whacking out the Champion Edition!!

Penned in for official release in February, Megadrive Streetfighter II is, like its Super Nintendo forefather, coming on a whacking great 16-meg cartridge and will feature all the characters, all the moves thanks to a special joypad that's in production as you read this, and with a bit of luck, all the incredible playability of the original! And because it's a convert of the Champion Edition, you'll be able to take on the same character that you're already controlling, including the bosses, right from the outset and without having to muck about with cheats! Can't wait? Neither can we, which is why we're already gagging to see more of Streetfighter II - Champion Edition on the 16-bit Sega. And as soon as we have, we'll tell you all about it right here in CVG!

NORSE AND CLAY FROM INTERPLAY!

Ever fancied being a time-travelling Viking, but feel like you've missed your chance? Well don't fret, Interplay have the perfect answer; The Lost Vikings. Three Norsemen have been kidnapped by aliens and taken onto a spaceship where they try to make their escape. Each time they open one of the ship's doors they fall into a different time era, and it's up to you to fight your way through the hostile worlds and get the boys home. There are over forty levels of comical mayhem with great graphics, balloon bubbles for conversation between the half-wits and sampled speech. It's due out early '93 and sounds a riot!

Also high up on the Interplay agenda is the release of Claymates, the first title in a series of SNES games that feature clay animations. You've all seen 'em and loved 'em, those humorous plastecine animals on TV adverts - soon you can play a game with such characters as Muckster the cat and Ooozy the mouse! Professor Putty has been kidnapped by the evil witch doctor and the Professor's son, Clayton, accidentally turns himself into a lump of clay with dad's latest invention, giving him the power to turn himself into any one of five Claymates - get the picture? Of course all the characters have different special skills and only by using all five, as well as taking adventage of the cornucopia of hidden power-ups and items will Clayton rescue the Prof. Look for further info from the CVG boys soon!

A WELL-HARD CHOPPER

The PC is really beginning to take off, with some breath taking software swamping the shops - just take a look at the astounding X-Wing shots in this very issue! The latest scoop for US Gold is an awesome helicopter sim entitled Maximum Overkill, which grabbed everyone who saw it by the cheeky bits at the CES earlier this year. The technology used to create the 3D helicopters and terrain is so new that it's being patented, and is thought to be the biggest breakthrough in simulation technology for ages! If you don't believe us just check out the screenshots here! Maximum Overkill is said to rival multi-million dollar military training simulations, will be on your PC very soon, and if it lives up to the hype might just find its way into your barrier-breaking CVG in two shakes of a Bosnian's shells!

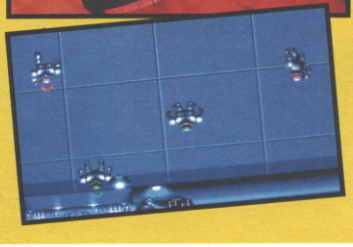
BALLS! A SPEEDY COMP!

Don't talk to us about being hard - we've been playing Speedball II for yonks, ever since it first appeared on the Amiga! Now Virgin Games have grabbed the rights to produce this fantastic future-sport, they want to tell the world about it - and who better to spread the word than CVG! The Master System version of the game has just been completed and, with makers of fine training shoes LA Gear, Virgin want to give away a plethora of prizes to get those gobs dribbling at the prospect of one-on-one head-kicking and goal-scoring on your little Sega!

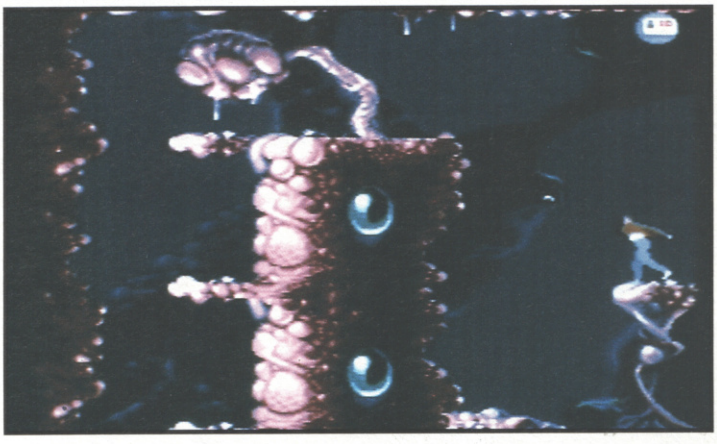
So what's on offer? One of twenty-five pairs of these lovely LA Gear Galacticas, in any size as long as it's five or under, could be yours, along with one of five copies of Speedball II on Master System! And what do you have to do to win? Send us a piccy of the ultimate piece of footwear for a rock-hard Speedball champ! What little gadgets would he need to help him score that winning goal? Rocket-powered toe-punters? Extra-sharp shin-slashers? Whatever you think would help the wearer of your creation, draw it! Send your completed masterpiece to: GOODNESS GRACIOUS, GREAT BALLS OF SPEED, CVG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU, and make sure it gets to us by December 12th, 1992. Oh, and remember to mark on your entry whether you want to win the trainers or the cart!

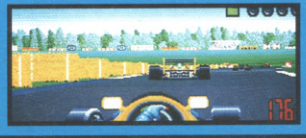


ANOTHER ANOTHER WORLD!

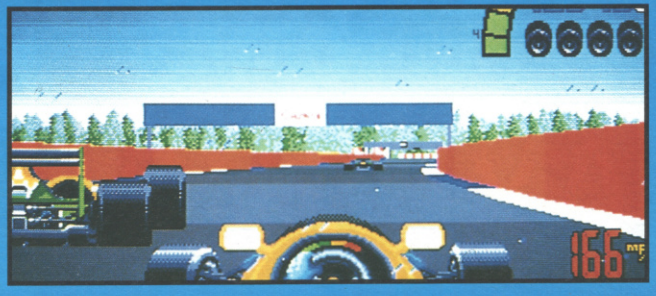
Following hard on the heels of Out Of This World, reviewed this issue and recipient of a fine and dandy CVG HIT!, comes Flashback, the stunning sequel to the equally impressive original. Research scientist Conrad Hart makes an astounding discovery late one night. Working in his laboratory, the egg-head discovers that certain well-to-do members of the community are not what they seem and are in fact aliens from another galaxy! Before he can break the story to the world the extra-terrestrials get to Conrad and imprison him in a high security hospital on the planet Titan to erase his memory. However, Hart escapes and, while makign a dash for freedom in a handy spaceship, is shot down in a swamp-like jungle region in the middle of nowhere. Lost and dazed, the man with no memory must find an identity and his way home.

Flashback utilises the same incredible graphics system of its predecessor, with fully animated cinematic effects and five sprawling levels of adventure. Each frame of animation has been created by video-taping real actors, turning them into graphics to achieve some incredibly life-like scenes. Conrad can walk, run, jump, climb and perform scores of other tasks such as throw objects and hang from ledges. Zooms, animated close-ups and flashback sequences are just a few of the effects incorporated into the game and some extra stunning surprises await those who take up the challenge. So what formats is this winner-in-waiting appearing on? Expect to see Flashback on Amiga and PC first - and expect to see a mega Exclusive lowdown on the almost-complete Megadrive game, which we've seen and can tell you it's incredible - in the VERY near future!





NIGE IS BACK!



Gremlin are quite adept at putting out not-crap racing games - look at the Lotus series if you need proof of that - and now they've got their mitts on probably the hottest driving license of the moment, in the form of Britain's very own F1 hero, Nige Mansell! Nigel Mansell's World Championship is poised for release on the sixteen-bit machines this month, with appearances on just about every other machine - including Game Boy - just around the corner. As you can see from these screenshots, the game's looking a little special and, with features like the Nigel Mansell coach option where the Manx megastar lets you in on a few trade secrets, you can bet this is going to be hot! hot! HOT! Gremlin are promising this is the one to whoop everything else they've done, and they're not just spouting hot exhaust fumes. They're packing a stack of options into the game, including a choice of gear settings, a learner track on which the computer will help you navigate your car around and a tuning station that'll make a Crypton centre look, well, a bit crippy. Look out for our forthcoming CVG Review of Nigel Mansell's World Championship - this could well be the racer to beat them all!

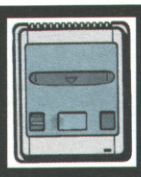
SHOOT EM UP

BY ARENA
£40.00



Hold onto your underpants and don't bother to mop up the puddles still covering your boots after last month's bowel-breaking look at X-Wing, because this time we've got a scoop to make Super Nintendo owners really mess their keks! JVC, with the assistance of Lucasfilm themselves, are putting the nuts and bolts into their SNES version of George Lucas' epic space extravaganza, calling it Super Star Wars - and if you read on and try and study the screenshots instead of falling off your seat as you first clap eyes on them, we'll tell you all about it!

LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THAT THING

Super Star Wars is JVC's first foray into the world of the Super Nintendo, and This game is huge 8 whole megabytes to be exact - and is full to bursting with some of swankiest graphics and audios the Super Nintendo has ever put on show. By stretching the machine's Mode 7 capabilities to the limit, the programmers have produced some of the most astounding scrolling visuals we've ever seen. One stage sees Luke and C-3PO cruising through the desert in a Land Speeder, towards the Jawas' Sand Cruiser at such a rate you'll swear that the wind is actually flowing through your hair! The programmers have made full use of artistic license. You won't recognise some of the monsters because they were never actually seen in the film and only mentioned by name! So the curious creatures Luke blasts in his back yard are Womp Rats!

THAT'S NO MOON

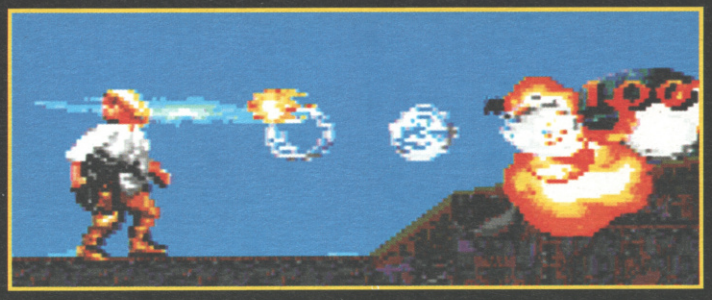
Special effects aren't just reserved for the movies; Super Star Wars has more than its quota of huge, animated monsters, high-speed scaling coupled with 360 degree rotations in the combat sequences, as well as accurate depths of field on parallax scrolling, creating the effect of a real 3D world for you to react in and space flight simulations to make Captain Kirk drop his load!

I'M ON THE LEADER

With all the stunning visuals shoved onto the Super Star Wars cart, it would be easy to let the sonics slip - but no! The original Star Wars tune has been recreated almost note-for-note, instrument-for-instrument, which plays away as a backdrop to the intro story and logo which scroll off into the distance, exactly like the beginning of the film! In fact, the game is flooded with movie-like sound scores - and the actual sound effects are digitised straight from the film! Smart effects such as the blaster fire, explosions, TIE Fighters, Light Sabre sweep and even Chewie's growl have been squeezed in so as to make the game as close to a movie experience as possible.

THAT WAS ONE IN A MILLION

So as to keep you in touch with proceedings during the game, each level is linked by stunning animations that act as updates to the action and tell you what's going on. They also serve to link all the different tasks of each level to further the feel of you taking part in a real film. Sounds good so far? We've seen a 99% finished version of the game and we can tell you that you ain't seen nothing yet - we haven't even mentioned all the monsters, pick-ups and weapons available! We'll be bringing you the full Review of this could-be classic in a CVG near you very soon - until then, may the Force Be With You!



IT AIN'T LIKE DUSTING CROPS, KID

Super Star Wars gives you the opportunity to take on the roles of Han Solo, Luke Skywalker or the 'walking carpet' Chewbacca in your quest and enter into tons of different game styles spread over fourteen gigantic levels. Cross the desert on foot, toasting Womp-Rats with your blaster; pick off Jawas as you race across the sand in a speeder; navigate through the trash compactor to disable the Death Star's tractor beam; and take on the elite TIE Fighters in a space battle to end all Super Nintendo space battles. The whole film's there to be played out in full - the only thing stopping you is the limitation of your skills!

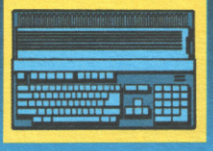
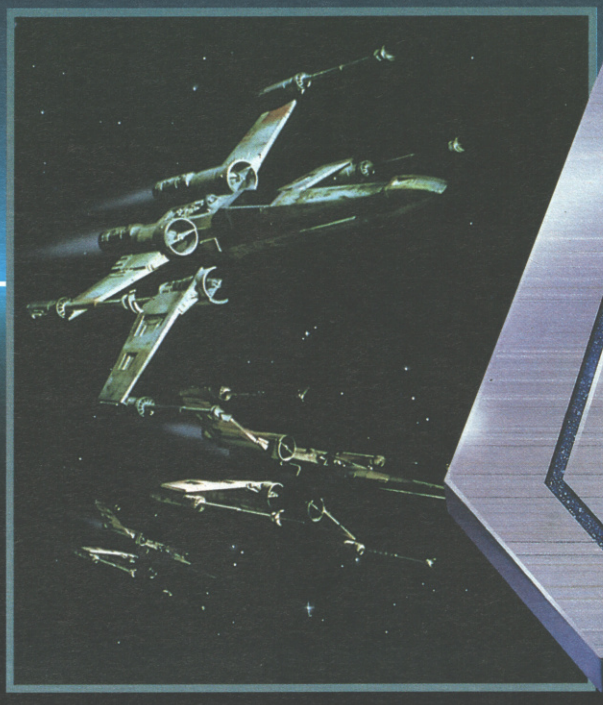
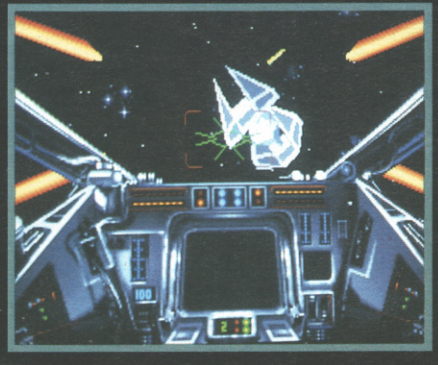
BATTLE SIM

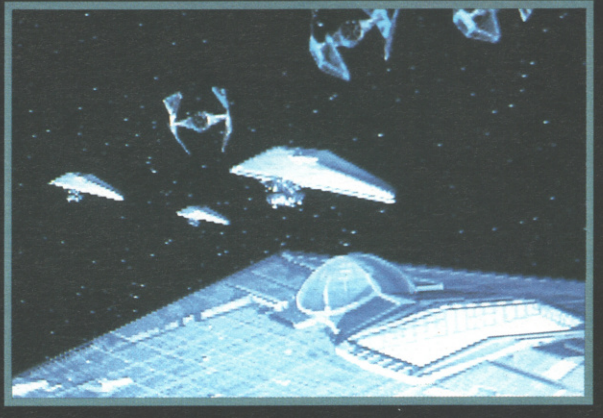


BY LUCAS ARTS & JVC

CRIKEY! Just when you thought that your trousers had reached maximum capacity and couldn't expand any more, along comes X-Wing to stick a hat-pin in the seams and spread the contents all over your mum's living room floor! Last month we gave you an exclusive Hotshots insight into the way the graphics are coming along and now we bring you the latest update with a secretly filmed video of the game in motion, smuggled out of Lucasfilm laboratories through a blanket of security men so thick you could stand a needle up in them!





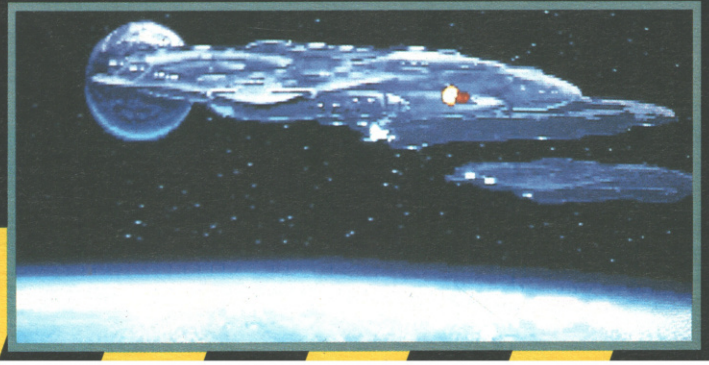


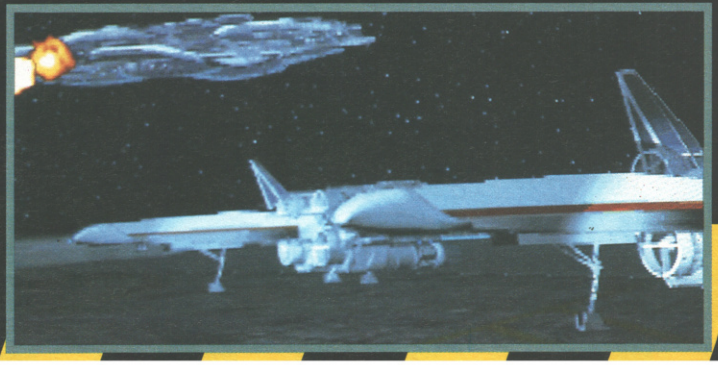
MANIC MUSIC MAYHEM

And just to confirm that this will be the most sought after game the PC has ever seen Lucasarts have included full screen cinematic action sequences and their incredible IMUSE sound system that allows the pitch and type of music played to change at a moments notice to suit the nature of the action on screen! Although the game is able to carry music 100 percent of the time during play, sampled sound effects and speech have also been crammed in so you can hear the roar of the Tie Fighters screaming overhead and even Darth Vader's mechanical breathing system! If ever there was a time for your Dad to get a PC, THIS IS IT!

FAB FILM FROLICS

Awesome is the only way to describe the footage as the titles and prologue scroll into the background just like in the film and a huge Imperial Battle Cruiser slides into view amidst a wave of laser fire and spiralling fighters. Huge balls of fire rip into the darkness as lumps of Tie Fighter career through space as the rebels claim another victim. It's unbelievable, just like watching a bit of the film that accidentally landed on the cutting room floor! You can choose to be the hot-dog pilot of one of four Rebel Fighters the S-Wing, A-Wing, Y-Wing and of course the X-Wing. Each one has it's own battle advantages and disadvantages and it's up to you to pick the best bird for the mission at hand.

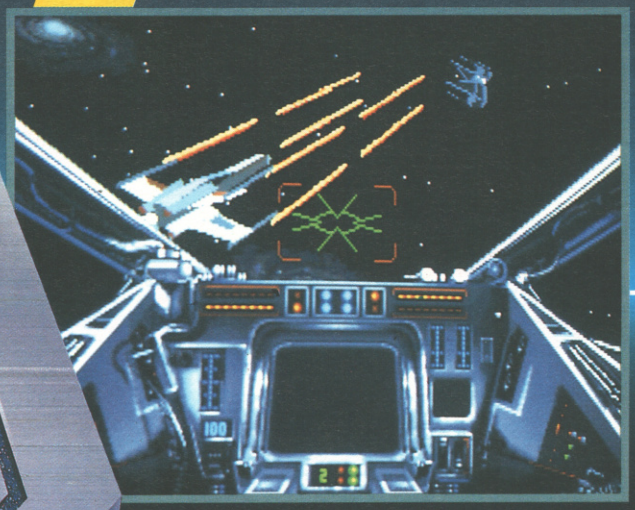


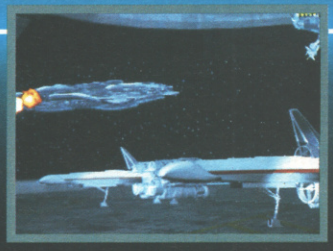


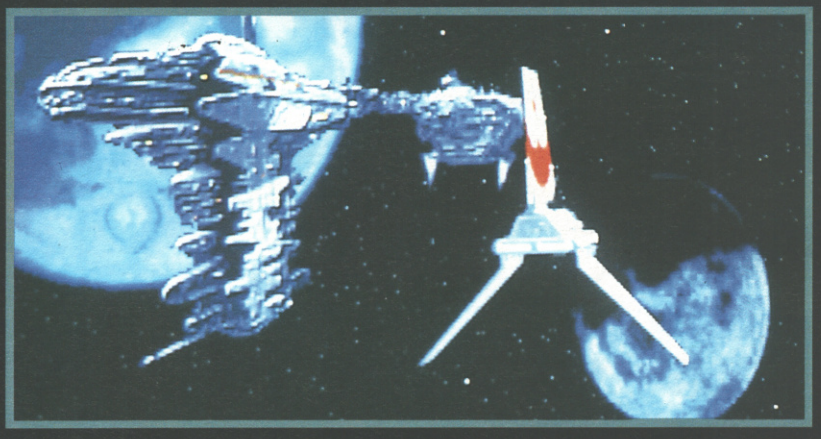
X-WING

LASER LAFFS AHOY

The best way of describing the game is a Star Wars sim. You can enter into all of the films most memorable star battles and a host of others. Try your hand at negotiating the 'Maze' in the pilot proving ground, join the rebel fleet and act with an entire squadron of fighters on three tours of duty, act alone on hit and run raids on Imperial cargo ships or fighters or get in on the film's most exciting battle, the attack run on the monstrous Death Star. There are over 50 amazing deep space and Death Star surface missions and everything can be captured on video replay to play back again and again in fabulous 3D from 17 different view points.







PROBLEM CORNER

In the true tradition of Lucas Film, pre-production of the mammoth game included hundreds of drawings all painstakingly hand-drawn for the graphic artists to work from.The spectacular artwork took months to put together, but is nothing compared to the original film's story-boards which had to made from scratch and often required single elements, such as a Storm Trooper's outfit, to be drawn hundreds of times until it reached perfection! One of the hardest parts about preparing a game such as X-Wing is the incredibly complex mathematics that have to work out in a split second what the action will look like from any one of the 17 different camera angles that must be accessible instantaneously!

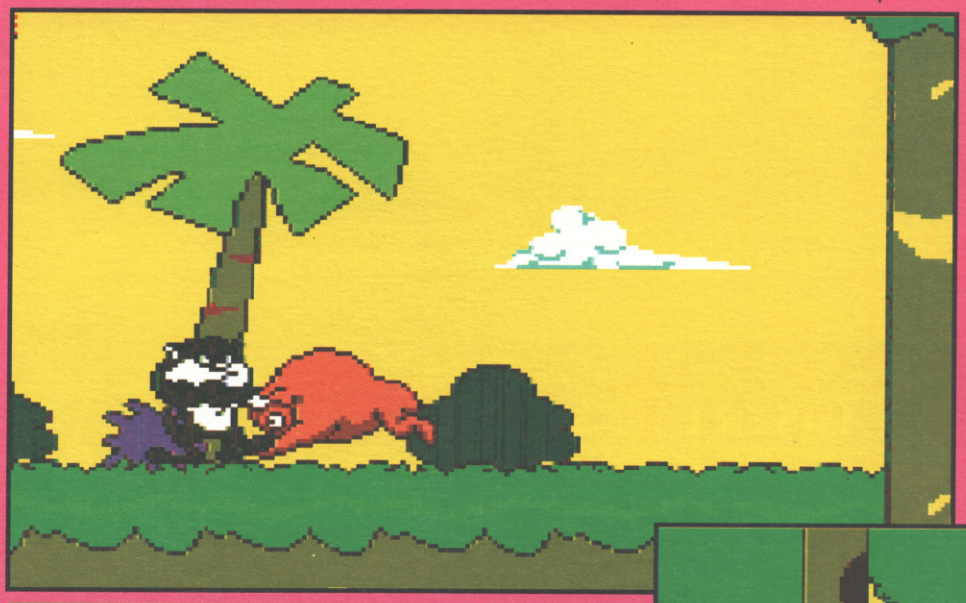
TAZ M

You get some funny animals down under. Australia has their kangaroos, New Zealand's got their kiwis, and Tasmania has the Tasmanian Devil. This mad little feller has been immortalised in cartoon form - and now he's come to the Sega! This whirling dervish of a creature spirals around the world, chewing through anything in its path and generally behaving rather badly. During one of his more peaceful moments, Taz hears from his dad about a Lost Valley containing hundreds of rare and undiscovered animals, one of which is a massive sea bird which lays huge eggs. So, probably because he's got bored of munching through his own neighbourhood, the little devil heads out to find the hidden valley and sharpen his fangs on pastures new...



TECHNICOLOUR DREAM

The first thing you'll notice are the spunky, colourful cartoon-like graphics. However, you won't be able to tell how how great the animation is 'til you see the game in the flesh. Little pink mice carrying spears roam the jungles with snakes, fireball spitting fly traps all laid down onto Tex Avery esque backdrops. Taz loses energy fast, but fortunately there are platters of roast chicken everywhere which our boy scoffs down whilst licking his lips and rubbing his tummy, as you do.

I'LL EAT THAT FOR A DOLLAR!

Guzzling is what Taz is best at. He just can't help himself, which can be a bit of a problem as the levels are carpeted with bombs positioned at strategic places around the platforms. If Taz lands anywhere near one he doesn't stop to think, but gulps it down and then realises that it's too late and it explodes in his stomach, nicking some energy and becoming a bit of a bummer.

Taz Mania looks great on the Master System and it's just the kind of game the machine needs to lift it out of the doldrums. The pick-ups are in huge supply and the gameplay moves along at a right old speed. Unfortunately the whole thing comes a cropper by being much too easy. There seems to be a plate of chicken to top up energy after every nasty, and none of the platform baddies provide any real challenge as all you have to do is run into them and shove them off the screen with the typhoon. That being said, it's great fun - especially for fans of the cartoon who will be glued to the game for hours. Hardened Master Systems veterans, though, will complete it fairly quickly, but it's brilliant fun while it lasts!

STEVE KEEN

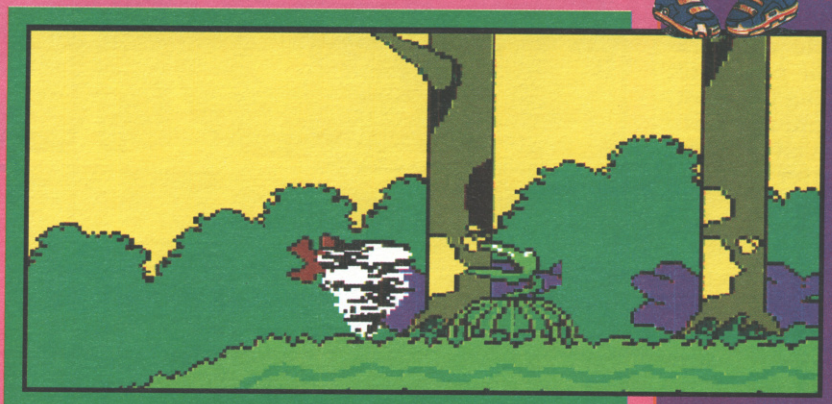
ANIA

There's no way you can compare the Megadrive version with the Master System, but what made Megadrive Taz such a hit were the graphics and the fact that there were piles of sprites, places to explore and things to do. The Master System has the looks, but without the depth it stands out as a good old romp which could have been a monster. Don't get the wrong impression - the game is fab fun and the caverns, jungles and other levels are a great laugh, but in the end the whole world seems a little empty. Give me small sprites, a ton of quirky monsters to splat and a heap of addictive gameplay and I'll take that every time. There's no substitute for substance and Taz Mania proves that.

PAUL ANGLIN

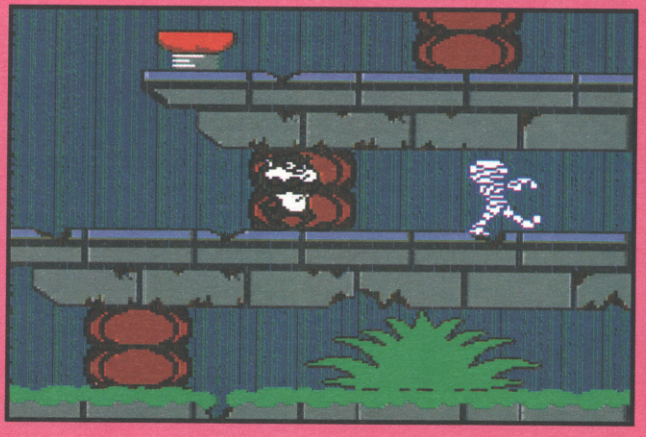
WACKY WHIRLWIND WONDERS

If you haven't seen the cartoon, you won't know just how nippy the Tasmanian Devil is. The real creature, which lives in...wait for it...Tasmania, is not nearly so colourful a character. In fact, it's a rather sad little creature which doesn't do a whole lot, but thankfully Sega's creation can either amble around the screen slowly or screech across the platforms in a spiralling whirlwind, smashing everything which stands in its way! This effect makes the devil immune to attack, but only lasts a few seconds as Taz has to catch his breath and wait for the power bar to top up again.



IS IT A BIRD? IS IT A PLANE?

Taz Mania's speed is not the only similarity with Sonic The Hedgehog. There are also masses of spring-loaded platforms which send you flying skyward to discover previously unreachable platforms in the clouds and treetops. These are great for helping Taz sniff out an extra lives or more plates of nosh to throw down his neck! Don't get tempted to spring off in unknown directions though, as you'll tumble down pits or get impaled on unsociable spikes. Ouch!



BIG BOYS DON'T CRY

Although energy boosts are plentiful and pick-ups such as invincible stars are around every corner, they won't help you with the end of level boyos! In Taz Mania these are a very mixed bunch, with the first being a rather tame bull and moving on to a young lad with a bow and arrow to a boomerang throwing croc! The only weapon Taz is armed with is his whirlwind, so you'll have to suss out a good attack and retreat plan to beat the big boys before getting in too close.

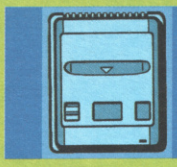
OUT OF THIS WORLD

SUPER NINTENDO

PLATFORM

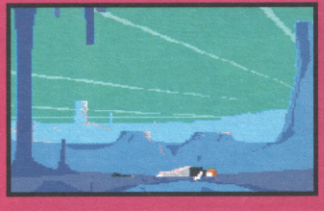
BY INTERPLAY
£45.00



Everything was going well for Lester Knight Chaykin - he'd just bought himself a top Ferrari F40 and his reverse particle acceleration project was almost complete. After hours of painstaking lab work, his calculations added up; the particle accelerator was ready for its first major test. Lester hooked everything up and, despite the rather severe storm that was brewing up outside, he began the experiment. Lester leaned back in his chair, opening a can of cola to ease the tension. But the trouble with lightning bolts is they always end up where you don't want them to go; this particular one shot straight down the wire to the particle accelerator. The next thing Lester knew, he was immersed in thousands of gallons of water - along with his machine. This was not his lab - this was Out Of This World.

I was one of many to be absolutely blown away by the Another World on the Amiga, and I'm happy to report that the Super Nintendo version is even better! Amazing is not the word - the game has such a cinematic look to it you'd swear someone had forgot to plug the Super Nintendo lead in and you were still watching your favourite sci-fi show. The sound too is on a par with something straight from the recording studio. Mind you, we've seen plenty of games with fab graphics and zero playability. Out Of This World, thankfully, is not one of these. Things start off tough and get difficult almost to the point of frustration, but the game's so good you just keep coming back for more. What more can I say? Nothing - simply that this is an incredible game that should be right at the front of your cart collection!

PAUL ANGLIN



TOP GUN ANTICS

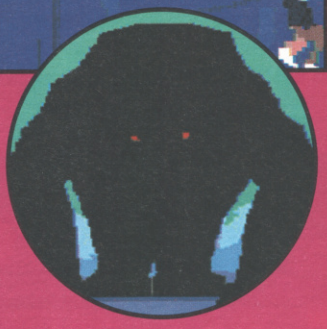
As well as being able to kill people with your gun, you can also create a shield with it. Keep your finger pressed down on the fire button until a little blue ball of energy appears, then release the button and a wall of energy will appear - although not indestructible, this will protect you for a while. Also, if you keep your finger on the fire button for ages until a big blue ball of energy appears, you will be able to blast away stuff like doors and other peoples shields. A very useful piece of kit - and it impresses the ladies, too.

SCREEN SCENES

As well as an astounding intro, Out Of This world also provides a host of superb animated cut-scenes during the game to delight and amaze. Take, for example, the first level - wrongly time your jumps over the strange, crawling animals on the floor and the scene switches to a full-screen view of the creature extending a venomous sting which it strikes your leg with, ripping your trousers. Later on, you'll come frighteningly face to face with a hideous, razor-jawed monster; meet for the first time, through glazed eyes, your new-found alien companion; be gobbled up by a savage pit creature; all these and more serve to create the nearest thing yet to an interactive movie on consoles.

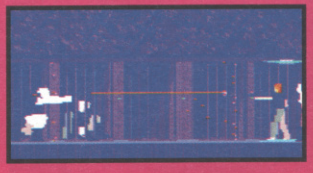
WHAT ARE FRIENDS FOR?

Complete the first level and you'll wake up in a cage with a hideous-looking creature. Don't worry - he's friendly. After you've escaped, your alien buddy assists your progress throughout the game; quite handy, considering he's knows the ins and outs of this strange world. There's just one problem - he hasn't got any weapons (Lester finds a gun early on in the quest) so its entirely up to you to protect him. It's vitally important that you do, for he's essential to your eventual escape from this world. But don't worry too much if the pair of you become separated along the way; complete the required tasks and you'll eventually get back together.



ANOTHER WORLD, ANOTHER FORMAT

As games gurus like us will know, Out Of This World started life on the Amiga under the title of Another World. This version, while no different in terms of gameplay and presentation, runs at a faster frame rate than its floppy based forefather and, because the Super Nintendo joypad has a plethora of fire buttons, removes much of the fiddly control that slightly hampered the game on home computer format. And there's more - if you think this is something special, just wait until you see the sequel! Flashback is its name and in gameplay terms its even better than this! Unfortunately, it's only available on computer formats at present - but watch this space for some top console-related information!



SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES

The sound of jaws dropping will literally be heard for miles around when you clap eyes on the stunning intro for Out Of This World. Created entirely using polygons, this ultra-long cinematic sequence depicts the events leading up to Lester's little accident. See our hero pull up outside the lab in is Ferrari and take a stroll through the dark corridors to his lab, where the scene switches to the experiment - and its untimely conclusion. The effect is absolutely incredible; you could honestly believe that you were watching a movie - and that's no chin-spinner.

When Another World hit the streets I was quite simply astounded by its playability and unbelievable graphical effects. All this has come to the Super Nintendo in Out Of This World, an incredible adventure using polygons in such a way that they rival even the SNES' fabled Mode 7 in the Wow! stakes. From the incredible intro to the plethora of cut-scenes to the game itself, it all just comes together so brilliantly, combining to form possibly the first 'interactive movie', certainly in cartridge form. Out Of This World isn't a massive game, but it certainly isn't easy. There are so many different twists and turns and tasks to accomplish - lots of them pretty way out, such as having to blast a light fitting so that it falls down onto an enemy a storey below you in order to pass through that screen later on in the quest - that you'll be at it for an age. Mark my words - Interplay are going to make a lot of dosh out of this one and, quite frankly, they deserve to.

There are high speed chases and there are outrageously high speed chases - and SCI is, well, a bit swift! Basically you're a top boy in a well-nippy murter, racing around the streets of America in search of villains who have managed to escape the clutches of the authorities. However the baddies, rich from all their crooked goings-on, can afford some pretty speedy automobiles so, leaving aside their sad Fiat Pandas, the local rozzers have climbed into a top-of-the-range speed machine in the hope of catching them. Mind you, psychopathic killers are none-too-pleased at the prospect of going behind bars, so don't harbour any thoughts of gently persuading them to pull over.

I did enjoy the Master System version of Chase HQ, but it's looking quite dated these days. Now here's the sequel and, while SCI does manage to generally improve on the Chase formula it still leaves a lot to be desired. Graphically it can't be called stunning; everything jerks along and the roadside is very sparse - the road itself is quite smooth though. I found it rather off-putting, being able to drive straight through cars, but apart from that gameplay is fair enough, although it does get samey. SCI isn't what you'd call a great game, but hey, it's not terrible - and you get to shoot hell out of baddies!

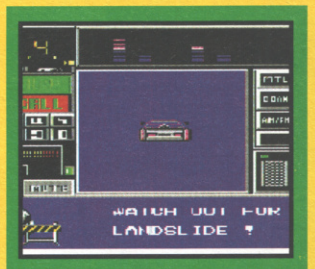
FASTER! FASTER!

If travelling at 270mph isn't fast enough for the speed freaks amongst you then, with the use of one of your precious three turbos, you can boost your mileage to an obscene 380mph for about five seconds. These can be very helpful in terms of making up lost ground, but beware - the car tends to wobble a little at speeds approaching 400mph!

SPECIAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIONS

DEATH ON WHEELS

The baddies you need to nick are very naughty crims. These boys aren't wanted for parking on double yellows - robbery and murder are their game. The more dangerous the hood, the faster their cars go as you progress through the game; they're not bad drivers either, so make sure they don't knock you off the road!



CATCH THE COIN-OP

As regular arcade goers will know, SCI is the sequel to Taito's hugely successful coin-op Chase HQ. The original had basically the same plot - chase a villain through the streets and apprehend him by crashing into his car. The sequel wasn't nearly as successful due to the fact that, apart from the addition of guns, the game was exactly the same. If you liked the first game, you may be interested to learn that it's been available on Master System for some time - but it's a bit old and sad these days.

WEAPON OF WONDERMENT

In order to get rid of the bad guys quickly, you're given a number of different weapons to dispatch them with. You start off with a rather poor pistol but, thanks to that great police helicopter that flies overhead, you can receive some top hardware ranging from rocket launchers to machine guns. The problem is that you only get a certain amount of shots - five to be precise. Use them wisely.

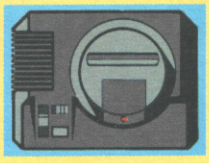
P LAT

BY

S EGA

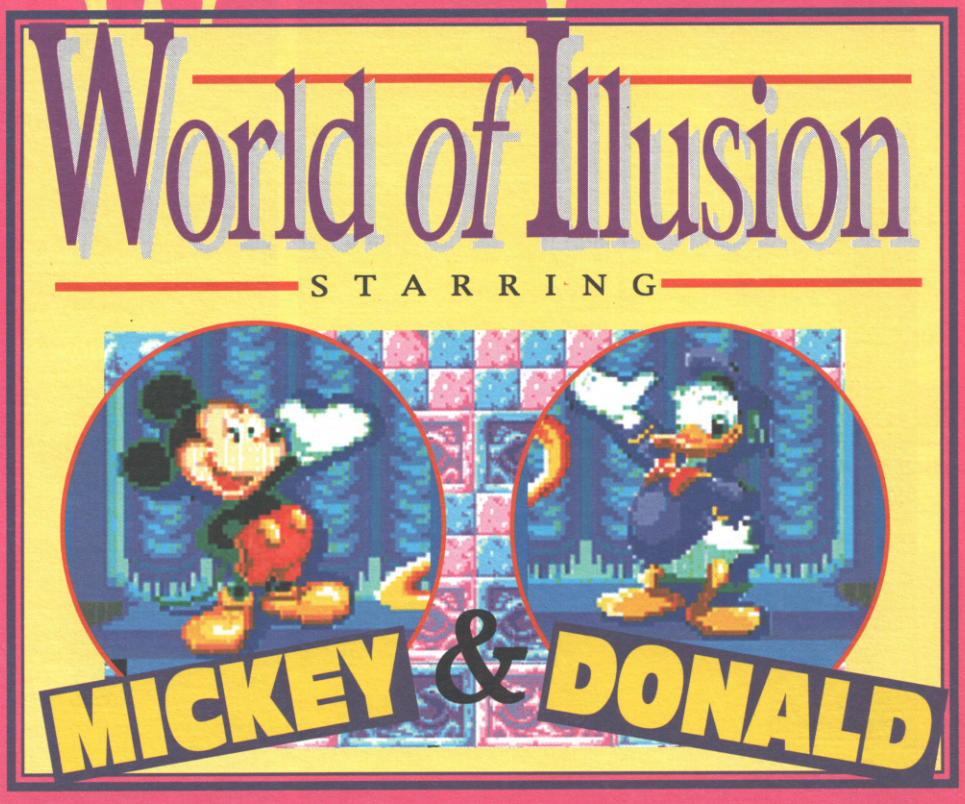


The life of a magician can't be easy. I mean, having to make people believe that you are really making things disappear and that you're not just spinning their chin. Mind you, Mickey and Donald have got bigger problems. It all started when Donald discovered a strange box during a rehearsal for the big magic show. Donald turned to Mickey and in his duck-like manner said to the mouse "Hey look at this. Let's have a go." With a slightly higher tone Mickey replied "Gee I don't know Don, it could be..." and before he could finish the curtain had closed and Donald had disappeared! Mickey ran over and was drawn in to the box by some kind of magical force - and whisked off to the World of Illusion as laughter filled his (rather large) ears..

Remember Fantasia? Most of us would prefer to forget it. Thankfully, we're more than assisted to do just that, thanks to Sega and their perfect pairing of Mickey and Donald in World Of Illusion! The superlative sprites and backdrops of the previous Disney licenses are back in abundance - in fact, they're even better, containing some brilliant animation sequences such as those of Mickey pulling Donald through tight places 'cos he's too fat! Sound is fairly weak, but the overall package just reeks of quality. This is a massive title, consisting of not one but two games. Not the most difficult cart ever to grace a Megadrive, but without doubt one of the classiest - hurrah for Mickey and Donald!

CVG 032

PAUL RAND



DOUBLE THE FUN

Mickey and Donald has been very much geared around the idea of some real two-player action, and all the levels feature little changes depending which mode you play in! Not only that, Mickey and Donald will take a different route through the game depending which you choose. Some of the other two player laffs include Mickey having to pull Donald through gaps 'cos he's too fat to get through himself and a rail car where Mickey and Donald have to jump alternately to get the thing to move!

KEY NOTES

One of the more interesting features of level 2 is the huge piano in the sky. There are a few bonus points in there if you hit the right keys, but get it wrong and you'll produce a bomb! There's no real gain in this but it's a good laugh to run up and down the keys and create some well weird tunes.

SUPER SMASHING LOVELY

As you may have gathered from the intro magic spells play quite a large part in Mickey and Donald. Whenever you kill an end-level baddie you'll be given a new magic spell which you will need to do the next level. These vary from a magic carpet to a bubble which lets you breathe underwater, and even a giant bottle cork. But undoubtedly the best thing about the magic spells is hearing Mickey mutter those magical words "Alakazam" in his usual high pitched manner. If you're playing in two player mode Donald gets the honours and you can hear just what a British Rail train announcer sounds like.

OH MICKEY YOU'RE SO FINE

Mickey Mouse has become quite a fixture on the Megadrive. He first appeared in Mickey Mouse Castle Of Illusion just over a year ago and the game was hailed one of the best Megadrive platformers ever. Then Fantasia attempted to recreate this genius about six months later, but the game featured lots of horrible gameplay quirks and niggles. Since then the Sega world has been waiting for more top-class mouse malarkey - and here it is!

DROP IT

One of the main two player features is the use of the rope, with which Mickey or Donald can hoist each other up to higher parts of the level. To perform this amazingly simple task you simply stand above the player at the bottom of the screen and hold down button A. The climb will be automatic. There are a ton of different places to use it so you'd better get the hang of it quick, or you'll stay sad forever!

Sega needed something pretty drastic to rescue the reputation of their Disney games 'cos Fantasia pretty much wrecked it beyond belief. But by thunder me trousers they've been and gone and done it! World Of Illusion starring Mickey and Donald retains the graphic look of Fantasia, but manages to, steer clear of that game's tawdry gameplay, excelling itself in the playability department. The inclusion of both Mickey and Donald isn't just a gimmick - it actually adds something to the gameplay, with different levels depending on which character you play. The three different mode are Mickey and Donald, Mickey or Donald. There's also a real emphasis put on the two player aspect. There are loads of little bits which will require team work to navigate, all of which is designed give the game longer lasting appeal. And it works because there's a real compulsion to see the differences between every type of game. There are a wealth of very good platform games on the Megadrive, not least the first 16-bit Mickey Mouse spectacular and, although this doesn't quite manage to steal Castle of Illusion's crown it does run a very close second and is well worth getting. Recommended.

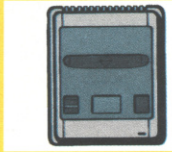
SUPER NINTENDO

RACING

BYNINTENDO
£49.99



Mario's back! And best of all, he's brought all his old pals with him! But forget jumping japery and secret room malarkey, because everyone's taken time off from their usual platform antics for a day at the races! That's right, Mario and pals have put aside their differences to work on their handling of hairpin bends, with four different courses to race and five tracks on each course. If that's not enough, there's even a head-to-head battle mode for those starved of some Bowser killing fun and frivolity. So stop messing about, grab your kart and RACE!

He might have a large nose and wear dungarees, but Mario is the hottest property around - and now he's taken a break from platform romps to star in his very own racing thrash! Super Mario Kart is the name and the game borrows lots of features from the Mario Bros series and shoves them into a variety of racetracks - riding over question-marked blocks gives you various bonus items - pick up coins, grab stars to become invincible and even receive Koopa Shells to hurl at your opponents. And what opponents! All your favourite Nintendo characters appear, from Princess Daisy to Donkey Kong Jr, all burning up the tracks as they try to outdo each other for the points. One player mode is a treat right enough, but grab a friend and play split-screen racing or go for the one-on-one death duel track and Super Mario Kart really comes into its own! Graphics are gorgeous - Mode 7 really kicks some ass as it creates the brilliant array of tracks, and all the characters are instantly recognisable. This isn't just racing - it's Super Mario Bros on four wheels - get it before your friends laugh at you for being a sad, non-Mario Kart owning man.

PAUL RAND

SPIN THAT WHEEL

Rest assured that the spirit of Mario is alive and kicking, even if the game is very different. There are still tons of pickups available in Mario Kart, gathered by driving over the question marked boxes which appear just after the starting line. When you drive over them the box in the top right hand corner flashes with all the different icons and you have to stop it by pressing the A button. Here's the full list of what's available:

Coins: allow your kart to take hits. If you have no coins and are hit you'll spin off the track, but collect ten of them and you'll speed up a tad!

Mushrooms: give a handy short burst of speed, best used just before the finish line.

Green Shell: allows you to propel a shell forwards in the hope of hitting someone. Best used when an opponent is right in front.

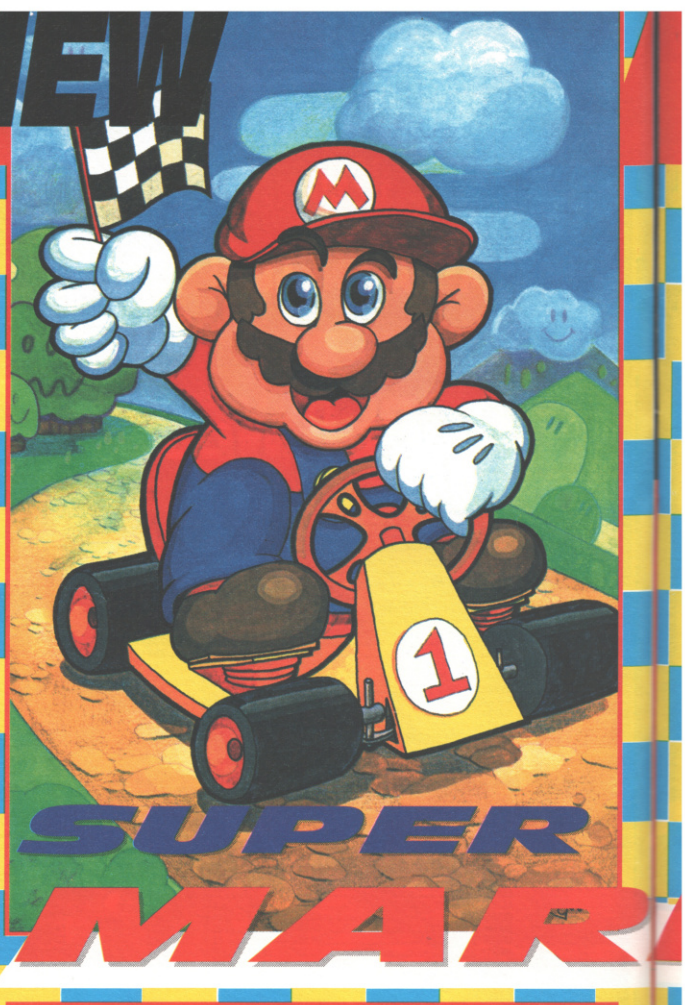
Red Shell: much better than the green, this little baby is virtually a guided missile and almost bound to hit the car in front. Hurrah!

Star: invincibility. When you have it, crash into as many people as you can!

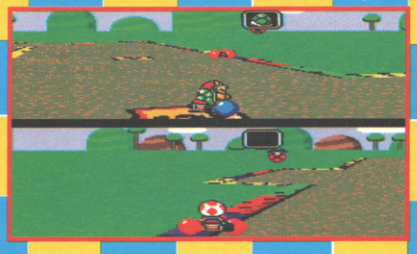
Feather: super high jumping laughs ahoy! Great for jumping enemy shells and even finding short cuts on some levels!

Banana Skin: drop one of these and if it catches anyone out they'll spin off the track. Best used when there's someone directly behind you.

Lightning: the best of the lot. Using this will shrink all you enemies down to thumbnail size AND you can run them all over!



THE WHACKY RACERS



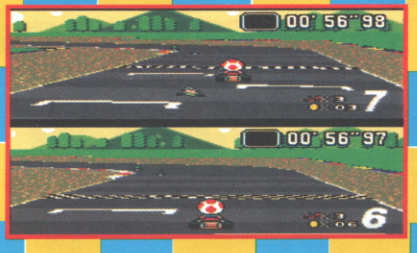
MARIO: Mr Dungarees himself doesn't find much time to race, so most of his talents are fairly average. Perfect for the beginner, but you'll find it hard to progress far with him. Special Power: Invincibility Stars.

LUIGI: The rather more neglected of the two brothers isn't too great either and his skills aren't really any different to that of Mario's. Special Power: Invincibility Stars.

TOAD: He may have a mushroom on his head, but Toad can sure mix it with the best. His speed and road handling are up there with the best of them, but his road gripping is a bit poor to say the least. Special Power: Shrinking Mushrooms.

KOOPA: Due to his distinct lack of size, Koopa is the fastest on the track. Handling's good too, but his road grip is really rather poor. Special Power: Shells.

MARIO KART



BOWSER: The biggest and baddest of the lot, but that's not really good news. Bowser's size slows him up horribly, but the extra weight does provide some brilliant road handling. Special Power: Bowser Bombs.

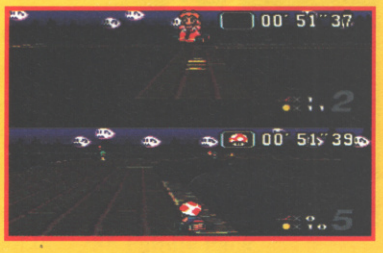
DONKEY KONG JR: Baboon boy's weight means he sticks to the floor like glue but it doesn't do much for his speed. Special Power: Banana skins.

YOSHI: The green dinosaur's strengths are his high speed and above average holding, but don't expect him to steer too well. Special Power: Dinosaur Eggs.

PRINCESS: Being a tiny paperweight kind of gal, Daisy's speed is right up there with the best of them. Road handling is also tops, but that lack of weight means there's not much to keep her stuck to the road. Special Powers: Mushrooms.

The distinct lack of high-powered racing cars made a lot of people a little wary of this, but what a mistake! Mario Kart is the absolute biz! In true Mario style the massive depth of gameplay far outweighs the brilliant (not to mention speedy) Mode Seven-orientated graphics and superb sound. At first play this seems no more than your average racer, but it's not until you get into it that you realise quite how much there is. For one thing, mastering all the eight characters will take ages. Then there's the inclusion of the coins. At first it seems as though they've just been put in to support the licence when in fact they're a crucial part of the game. Learning where to use certain power ups will also occupy many a late night, and trying to complete the special cup in 150cc will take ages! The one player mode doesn't provide an unending amount of fun and frolics, but get a few mates and you can form a Mario Kart league in no time at all. Overall, another superb Mario outing. Can this guy do anything wrong?

PAUL ANGLIN



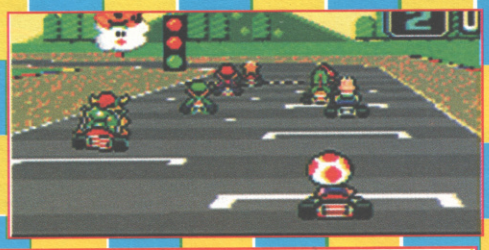
CVG REVIEW

What an incredible laugh this cart is! Basically Mario and pals have taken time off from their usual antics for a day at the antics - and turned in one of the most compulsive racing games I've ever seen! There's a real competitive element as you race hell for leather round the twisting tracks, desperately trying to knock out your pal using every trick in the book! Everything in the game looks very Marioish, complete with mushrooms, coins and all the usual tomfoolery. But that's where the similarity ends - because this game is wicked! With loads of tracks and eight different characters to select (all of whom handle completely differently) you won't be bored with this in a hurry! This is one of those games where hours fly by like minutes and on no account have the cartridge anywhere in the house when you've got something important to do - because it just won't get done!

TIM BOONE

HORSES FOR COURSES

Not surprisingly the three different courses vary hugely in the difficulty stakes. The first is the Mushroom Cup, which is a good laugh but won't provide much challenge for long. Next up comes The Flower Cup, with some really dodgy tracks to negotiate. Then it's on to the outrageously hard Star Cup, which will have you tearing your hair out. If you can manage to grab a gold medal in all leagues then you will be able to race the Special Track - the ultimate in Mario-related driving experiences. But that's not all - come first in all races you'll be able to race 150cc machines.



BATTLING IT OUT

The second type of game in Mario Kart is the Battle Mode, which puts you and a friend head to head in a battle to the death! Both players Karts are surrounded by three balloons, and to burst these you must hit your opponent with one of the weapons that can be found in the bonus boxes laying around the track. But make sure you don't pick up anything crap. I mean, how are you going to dispose of Bowser with nothing but a mushroom? It's just not done!

IT'S LOADED!

(But you don't have to be)

The amazing Amstrad PC7286 Family Pack comes with just about everything but the kitchen sink.

For a start, all the software is pre-loaded and, thanks to the unique easy-to-use Amstrad Desktop graphical interface, you can start using the powerful PC7286 from the moment you switch on – even if you're an absolute beginner.

What's more, the Amstrad Desktop will also take you through a full on-screen interactive tutorial, so that you can learn about all aspects of using the PC7286 at your own pace.

Which means that in a surprisingly short space of time, you'll have the power and capacity of a professional business computer at your command.

The PC7286 comes complete with MS-DOS 5.0, Lotus Works 3.0, the latest integrated business package, a 16MHz 286 processor, 1Mb RAM, fast access 40Mb hard drive and enhanced VGA graphics. Serious stuff eh?

But now for the fun.

The Amstrad PC7286 Family Pack also comes with an in built sound card, joystick and stereo speakers to give you maximum enjoyment from the six pre-loaded, action-packed games – Jimmy White's 'Whirlwind' Snooker, Steel Empire Elite Plus, F-15 Strike Eagle II, Links and Prince of Persia – for hours of state of the art entertainment.

That's the new Amstrad PC7286 Family Pack.

As a games machine it's the bees' knees.

As a professional computer it's the business.

YOB'S MAILBAG

PHEUFGHHHHH! What's that terrible smell? It must be another sad selection of your crude attempts at wit and wisdom, put in their place by the Almighty YOB as only yours truly can do! This month's sackful of shufflers are so pathetic I'm frankly amazed their owners could open an envelope, let alone stuff them with the drivel you're about to enjoy. If you think you can do better (and let's face it, who can't?) or just want to know about games, then this is the place to be. So fire off those illiterate scribblings to the world's greatest one-line lout at: YOB'S BOWEL BUSTINGLY HILARIOUS MAILBAG, COMPUTER AND VIDEO GAMES, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, PRIORY COURT. EC1R 3AU. Remember there's £100 is up for grabs to the person who sends in the best letter of the lot, although this lot aren't worth the used Andrex tubes they've been written on...

HELLO SAD FANS

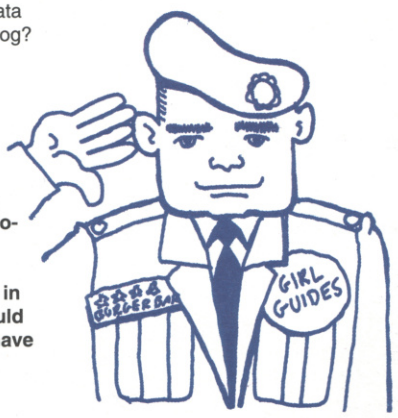
Dear YOB,
Your mag is brill and I have some questions to ask you, if I may?
1. What is the release date for Street Fighter 2 on the ST, Amiga and PC?
2. I read in another magazine that the computer versions of Street Fighter 2 will have all the characters and all the moves. Is this true?
3. If it is will there be a special joystick with loads of buttons on it so that you can perform the moves.
4. Do you know if they will bring out a Street Fighter 92 data disk, so that you can play M.Bison, Vega, Sagat and Balrog?
5. My mate Hanson fancies Sadie, is she interested in younger men?
Thanks for your time and trouble Mr Yob, sir!
Lt MICHAEL HUNT
Huddersfield
YOB:
1. They should all be available in time for Christmas.
2. They'll definitely have all the characters and the programmers are trying to incorporate as many of the moves as they can.
3. US Gold thought about including a special joy pad in the game with the box, but the cheapest that they could get a standard pad for was £9.99, which they would have had to pass on to you.
4. If the game sells well enough, it could happen.
5. Sadie does have time for younger men, but not if they're sad cretins with last week's mushy peas for brains, ridiculous first names and crappy little pips on their shoulders. Next...

DOES ANYONE OUT THERE

Dear YOB,
I have a little problem and it's not my brother. Christmas is near and so is my birthday. I have a PC and want a console, preferably a Super NES or Megadrive with a good beat 'em up game. What's your opinion and could you also answer these questions?
1. How good is King Of The Monsters and the other Neo Geo conversions.
2. Which is better - Parodius or Thunder Force 4?
3. Is the Super Scope package any good and are there any more games coming out for it?
4. Are there any good sims on the SNES?
5. Why is Final Fight missing a level and a character and is only one player?
MICHAEL JONES
Ireland
YOB:
1. Very poor. The graphics were abysmal by SNES standards, let alone the Geo's. The other games were never really that good in the first place, so the conversions were on dodgy ground before they started.
2. Parodius.
3. The Scope itself isn't a bad piece of kit, but the first batch of games were complete crap. We've been assured the quality will improve, and has soon as His Mighty Yobness sees them I'll let you know.
4. Yes - and there are going to be loads more.
5. Because the only thing small enough to fit into the remnants of memory that the programmers had left on the cartridge was the contents of your brain.

READ THE HEADLINES

Dear YOB,
I know you won't print this letter as you're just not hard enough, but I will still... (CUT!)
STUART GRICE,
Essex



YOB: Do you find it difficult to sit down with your head stuffed up your bum?

AT THE TOP OF THESE LETTERS?

Dear YOB,
I own an SNES and I am mad on soccer games. The thing is that there are a quite a number of them out there and I want to know which one to spend my money on. So which one is the best? Is it Super Soccer Champ, Super League Soccer, World League Soccer, Hat Trick Hero, Super Cup Soccer or what? I have enclosed an envelope already stamped and addressed for you to send off my answers so do it quickly. I'll expect it back within a week. Please hurry up as I'm itching for a challenge and have no one else to ask.
UMAD MALIK,
Warwickshire
YOB: Sadly, all the games you've listed are worse than your spelling. If you want my advice, wait for the suped-up version of Super Kick Off and fill your time by sending me more free stamps every now and then.

IF YOU DO

Dear YOB,
I was reading the excellent October CVG when I came across an add for Street Fighter 2 for the Amiga, I also saw a small bit of news on it in CU Amiga which didn't really say much so I'd like to ask you a few questions about it.
1. As the Amiga only has one fire button how will you be able to do all the moves?
2. I have heard that on Fire and Ice you can use a Megadrive pad for an extra button. Will they use this on Street Fighter 2?
3. When is it going to be released and what will the price be?
4. How about an Amiga cover disk which gives you one round of Street Fighter? As you don't do much on the Amiga in your mag.
S.H.
Surrey
1. US Gold say they've come up with a clever control method. We'll have to wait and see.
2. The idea has been considered, an not entirely scrapped at the time of writing.
3. The game should be out in time for Christmas, price still not announced.
4. I've got a better idea - why don't we just put an entire console on the front of the mag, then everyone can play whatever game they like. Doh!

YOU'RE PROBABLY

Dear YOB,
Could you please tell me how I can get hold of the CVG issue with Chun Li on the front cover (I can't remember what number issue it is) and how much will it cost with postage and packaging. And if you don't answer this question it just shows what a sad collection of rubber turd makers you and your family are.
ADAM DAY,
Berkshire
YOB: Certainly. Firstly send your name and address on an SAE and post it off to: I'm Unbelievably Sad Me So Incredibly Cretinous I Can't Be Bothered To Read The Subscriptions And Back Issues Phone Number Printed At The Front Of CVG Because I Am Adam Day From Berkshire After All.

CHUCKLING AWAY

Dear YOB,
I'm writing to complain about two things. Firstly all the stupid gets who write to you and say how their consoles are excellent and everyone else's are crap! Well I haven't got a console at all and I think they're all brilliant! Secondly people in this country are being completely ripped off by the console manufacturers. I live in Hong Kong and over there you can buy Game Gears for £50 and an SNES for around £80 and neither of them are made there. If they sell so many in Europe why don't they have factories over here which would allow them to cut their prices by at least 30 per cent. But oh no! The reason they don't have them over here is because they make a packet from the dozy Brits who are willing to pay mega high prices for their stuff. They should keep prices universal all over the world so that we don't have to pay higher prices than the Yanks or Japs.
ED HOWSON,
NFA
YOB: You unbearably sad man. Have you ever stopped to consider the astronomic costs of modifying the machines to work in the UK, shipping them over here, paying import tax and marketing and distributing them in Britain? And let's face it, if everybody who bought the machines was as stupid as you they probably wouldn't bother. Why should anyone put themselves out to do you a favour?

AND LOOKING FORWARD

Dear YOB,
After reading some CVG's there are a few things I'd like to say.
1. The price of your magazine has increased but not the amount of pages. Why?
2. The reporter who went to the CES show in Chicago was obviously using the experience as a holiday to be claimed back on expenses as he did not do his job properly and failed to get any pictures of Sonic 2.
3. In every issue of CVG there are only one or two Amiga reviews and I don't see. Why can't there be more?
4. I'm getting sick of seeing pictures of the CVG staff in this magazine. Why don't you do us all a favour and print some naked pictures of Sadie instead! Finally I hope you have the guts to print this letter.
Jeroen De Oen
Holland
YOB: 1. You're wrong. CVG is now 16 pages bigger and GO! 8 pages bigger, not to mention the fact that the pages themselves have ballooned in size, which might just explain why a sorry little weed like you has developed armache trying to lift it and read this.
2. The reporter concerned was none other than Jaz Rignall, who actually got the world's first pictures of Sonic 2 with his camcorder before he was muscled out of the way by a load of heavies! The only expenses he claimed for the trip was the cost of a large box of Elastoplast with which he tended his wounds after this heroic attempt to keep jerks like you happy.
3. Haven't you got the message yet? CVG always picks the biggest and best games to review, so if it's not in the mag it's probably crap and you'll waste your money buying it - just the games I know you'll like.
4. Because the only way we can get Sadie to give us nude pictures of herself is to put the CVG boys' faces in the magazine. It's a swap, you see, and the boys happen to think it's quite a good one...

TO SOME SECRET

Dear YOB,
I have named you N.O.B. because I think that you are a member of the National Organisation for Bum-scrubbers. I have to say this because I don't like the way you insult everyone who writes to you. (Moi? - YOB) Well here are a few words which I think describe you best. You are a (BEEP) piece of (BEEP) and you talk more (BEEP) than you develop. You think that driving a car backwards is intelligent? I think that you are related to Mrs Thatcher since everyone knows she's got mad cow disease! PS Don't forget to send me £100 before I lodge a bullet in your brain. And don't (BEEPING) well forget!
PPS Not that you have a brain,
AMAN KUNDRAW,
Essex
YOB: You see that (PHHRRRP) piece of toenail clipping all covered in fluff, yellow and twisted? That's your (PHHRRRPING) lunch that is, that's your favourite food. And do you see that (PHHRRRPER) Jimmy Nail, the one off Spender, he's got more intelligence in his broken nose than you've got in your head.

MESSAGE.

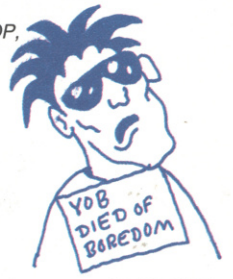
Dear YOB,
I am writing to compliment you and your team on your excellent piece of craftsmanship in last months CVG. I particularly enjoyed the Street Fighter 2 guide and the review on Prince of Persia in your fabulous GO! Magazine. Anyway enough sucking up (Phew, that was close - YOB) for one day. I'd just like to ask a few easy questions.
1. Will Game Gear Games ever be able to be converted to the Megadrive?
2. Is LHX Attack Chopper any good on the Megadrive?
3. Will there be any other golf games like PGA Tour Golf coming out on the Megadrive?
4. Have you ever thought of organising a console rental service so that we, the public, can really see if your enthralling reviews are what you make them out to be. If so, think about naming it after me, something like 'Yob and Randles' Console Rentals.'
PS Why do you insult everyone who writes to you? I'm not complaining!
SOMETHING RANDLES
Somewhere
YOB: 1. Only a festering idiot with a brain the size of flea plops would want to convert Game Gear games to the Megadrive, so why don't you get started? On the other hand there is an adaptor that allows you to play Master System Games on your Game Gear and one that lets you play those on the Megadrive so why not get them instead?
2. Yup.
3. How about PGA 2? It's coming soon.
4. No, but I have considered setting up Yob and Randles' Console Mentals, in which we hire you out for annoyed GX4000 owners to beat up when they realise how completely crap their machine really is.
PS Because most of them are almost as stupid as you...

BUT THE SAD FACT IS

Dear YOB,
I am writing in reply to Paul Jones (issue 126) just to tell him to shut his oversized mouth before I go over to that puddle of dog poo otherwise known as Worcester and shove his Amiga so far up his ass he'll be crapping business software for a year. The reason I haven't got round to writing before is because I've been too busy kicking seven shades out of other sad, wimpy, smelly Amiga owners and the reason Amiga games are cheaper is because they're so completely crap!
JAMIE DAWSON
Wales
YOB: Does it usually take you seven months to read an issue of CVG? Who knows, maybe you started at the latters page, and on the average of one word a day you've only got twenty left to go...

I JUST COULDN'T

Dear YOB,
I live in South Africa and I love to read your totally rad Mailbag. I read in CVG, or some other magazine, that it would cost a fortune to put 4 in 1 Megadrive games. I have some news you might find interesting, here we have 4 Megadrive games on one cartridge which cost R160, about £30. We also have Street Fighter 2 on the NES - Hong Kong Version. We have a lot of different consoles from Japan which are all ripoffs of the NES simply called Family Computers.
KEVIN KNOOP,
Cape Town



YOB: Was that supposed to be interesting? Was I supposed to jump up and down in the chair and shout Eureka after some breakthrough of thought, some meeting of minds, some cosmically significant experience? Or was your letter just the load of boring crap it seems to be?

BE BOTHERED

Dear YOB,
Why do people play computers and consoles? All computer players are fat spotty chunks of crap. I have a mountain bike, I can't say which one in case someone tries to pinch it, and it has 18 gears. I ride it every night with my friends Paul and Simon and when my mum doesn't let me out on it I feel like killing myself. I use it for entertainment. Sometimes I play with my Commodore C64 when my mum doesn't let me out. The C64 is the best console on the market. My 'friends' Luke and Gareth are always talking about their Super Nintendo's and something called Street Fighter 2 in our French lesson, not paying attention to the teacher which I think is very rude. My C64 could blow any SNES out of the water. YOB, I hate you. You're always insulting people for no reason. I bet you get up to sad perversions with your old jock strap and a lubricated garden gnome. You have skid marks the length of the M4. If you insult me, you mouldy piece of crap, I'll get my dad to sue your ass. That's not a threat, that's a promise.

PS I'm not scared of you!
TRYSTAN NICHOLS
Wales
YOB: Dear Trystan,
I understand your problems but have to inform you there's very little that can be done. Short of standing on your head and squirting anti-freeze into your ear I can't think of anything likely to kick start your frozen brain. Still, it's not your fault and you can always blame your sad dad. Half of it was his fault, after all.

SO I THOUGHT

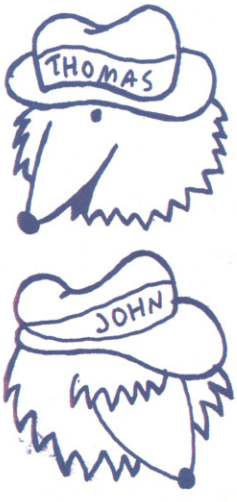
Dear YOB,
How much do you know about Street Fighter 2? If you know everything about it can you tell me all the characters secret moves. Guile can get handcuffs, Chun Li can turn invisible - but how do you do these things? Please tell me before I cry!
MING FAN,
Hampshire
YOB: Spanner alert! Yet another sad fool who's heard the false secret weapons rumour. Take it from me, I've played this game inside out and worn out three cartridges already, these moves do not exist. You're being rather sad and confusing them with bugs which appeared in the early test boards of the coin-op, where Guile looked as if he was cuffed up and Chun Li did indeed briefly disappear. Happy now?

I'D WASTE YOUR

Dear YOB,
I am stuck, so answer the following questions please.
1. I am going to Florida this year and I want to get a Megadrive or SNES. The Megadrive because of the range of games and the SNES because it is so good. Which should I get?
2.How much would it be?
3. Will it be compatible with English games or will I need an adaptor?
4. Why are there so many idiots who ask you for £100?
JAISHAM RAJENDRA,
Hertfordshire
YOB: 1. Don't buy either in America because you'll need to have them modified to work over here.
2. Seeing as you won't be buying either, you don't need to know that.
3. Nor this either.
4. At least they stand some chance of getting it...

TO WRITE ANY PROPER ONES

Dear YOB,
We have kidnapped your bird (that is your girlfriend) so you'd better start raising some cash. £100 should do. If you try to phone the police or come after her yourself we will personally blow your ugly keister (who cares about spelling, you know what we mean) off the face of the planet. So drop the money off at Wimbledon Common, home of the Wombles, by the next edition of this great mag. Or the girl gets it!
PS I hear that Fatal Fury is coming out on the Megadrive, is this true?
THOMAS STORME and JOHN CALE
Wimbledon
YOB: Congratulations! By putting your names on the ransom demand you have just appointed yourselves the saddest kidnappers in the history of stupidity, and nothing I say could add to the complete and utter humiliation you must be feeling right about now...



TIME INSTEAD

Dear YOB,
In your September Mailbag you said that the UK SNES was excellent value for money. Why? In the USA the SNES alone costs $99, which is only £53, so why is it so much in England? Also you can get an SNES and Mario 4 for only $140, £74, so why is it twice the price in the UK?
P.S. Don't just be rude because you don't know the answer. Thank you.
TIM JAMES,
Berks
YOB: No, I'll be rude because I DO know the answer. There are many reasons for the higher price mark for the SNES in the UK, most seem to be put down to import costs as the machines aren't made here and not only are there transport costs to be paid but taxes and import duties to be levied. Hang on, is there an echo around here? Haven't I already told some sad sap this already? Well, anyway. Secondly the USA machine is not the same as ours. Theirs is a disgustingly ugly grey shoe box of a machine, whilst ours is a stream lined monster (even though they have more or less the same innards). Thirdly the reason you can by the machines so cheaply out their and get such good package deals, is because Nintendo feel that the machine is a one time purchase and it would be a much better money-spinning ploy to lower the price of the machine and up the prices of the carts, as those you will be buying over and over again thus paying the extra money time and time again. Fourthly, when we said the SNES pack was great value we were speaking relatively to previous prices we've seen in this country. Don't you feel stupid now?

BECAUSE YOU'RE ALL RATHER CRAP.

Dear YOB,
My sister reckons you're well tasty. Beneath those plasters and greasy spots she says there's a dreamboat hunk just waiting to get out.
DAVID MITCHELL
W Yorks
YOB: I'm sorry to disappoint her. Beneath my greasy spots are more greasy spots just waiting to burst - and I'm sure she knows how that feels...

OH LOOK!

Dear YOB,
Yes, yes, yes! CVG is the greatest mag, but just answer me this one question: are you and Sadie the same person? You are aren't you? You hang around these pages insulting people and generally pretending to be hard (yawn). But a few pages on you've got yesterday's Spaghetti on top of your head and are pretending your hoover is a big gun. Don't lie to me. You think you've got us fooled, don't you? Well we're onto you Mr(s) Sad YOBie. What would your mother think? Well, that's me done you can tell me I'm sad now but at least I don't have trouble deciding what I am.
STEPHEN SHEEHY
London.
YOB: It's true that I do insult most people, but every so often I make an exception when the writer is so obviously brain dead that any any of my charm and charisma would be wasted on such a tragically underdeveloped mind. Consider yourself excepted, you fine person you.

SOME BONUS LETTERS

Dear YOB,
Congratulations! CVG is streets ahead of any of the competition but looking at a back issue I noticed some alarming changes. You're always saying how much CVG has improved but in the October 91 issue there were 130 pages, 44 of those were adverts, that's 34% of the mag, 32 reviews which took up 42 pages that's 32% of the mag 11% of the reviews were console 34% and 21 computer 66%. (Zzz - YOB) In comparison the October 92 issue there were 128 pages (down 2), 49 pages of adverts (up 7) which is 38% (up 6%) there were 17 reviews (down 15) which took up 49 pages which is 22% of the mag (down 10%). (Zzzz - YOB) Most worrying though for a dual format mag is that 16 of the reviews were console that's 96% of the reviews and only one review on computer that's only 4% of the reviews. (Zzzzz - YOB) So is it still a dual format mag or what? There are enough games around to review after all. What's going on?
STUART JADISON
St Leonards.

YOB: On the subject of your sad mathematics, YOB's trusty old abacus shows that not only are you completely wrong (CVG now gives you better value for money than ever before) but you wasted an awful lot of time to get there. On the subject of reviews content, CVG always stays one step ahead of the games market - and right now that market has shifted massively towards consoles. If you were Editor what would you do? Still print GX4000 reviews just because your little cousin named George had one buried under the cabbage patch? Some people...

TO FILL A HOLE

Dear YOB,
The only reason I buy CVG is 'cos of the way you insult people. It's pretty bado mucho, finki I'm bado but what can I say? If I ask you a perfectly simple question like how comes I aint heard of no Mega CD release yet which you said was this summer and don't bloody deny it. You'll insult me for being a boring old frustrater. On the other hand if I say something like mano tinkin imbado and teng and teng. Yob you're the twitster you camel pooh go copulate, you flaming horses ass you codswallop with minced beef and onion. You'd insult me worse so that's where my question comes in. Which one do I enclose? Please insult me and I'll kill you.
MEHTAAB HAMID
Bristol.
YOB: Excuse me, but does anyone round here speak Completecrap? You do? Can you sort out Mehtaab please, he's got a little problem called his intelligence.

AM I GOOD TO YOU

O great, almighty, most powerful wonderful YOB (aint I a stinker?)
I'm just a poor Belgian computer addict who isn't worth having the honour to pose questions to you. Anyway here they are:
1) Is there are gonna be a Nintendo version of Strider?
2) When?
3) How come you're so ugly?
4) Why did they invent the toilet when they could have used you?
THE KING OF BELGIUM,
China
YOB: 1. Unlikely.
2. What?
3. Because I'm so hard I don't care.
4. So people like me can shove your head down the bowl, pull the chain and rid the world another turd.

OR WHAT?

Dear YOBness,
I own a Game Gear and I have some money (£25 to be precise) and I would like to know if Two Tails is in Sonic 2. Please reply to this letter.
BRADLEY BOOTH,
Crouch End.
PS My brother Brett fancies Sadie please tell her.
YOB: Yes.
PS Why do you and your brother have the initials BB? Are you sure they don't stand for Baboon Boys?

SEE YOU LATER

Dear YOB,
It's a scandal! You may not have noticed it but the SNES is advertising drugs to all it's owners. You may think I'm crazy but take Mario for example. He was perfectly "straight" in Donkey Kong all those years ago but when he appeared his own game things changed. In the first three NES games he started using some magic mushrooms and in the fourth he started hiding in Ghost Houses. I can't imagine what Mario 5 will be like!
J VIWCE,
Essex.
YOB: If it's anything like your letter, worthless crap.

YOU RATHER SAD CASES

Yo YOB,
I happened to find a mistake in issue 131 when there was a Megadrive review there was a picture of an Amiga and I don't care if you insult me either. And I don't care if you call me a welsh taffy because I come from Wales, because I am English and I was born in England and moved to Wales so it's as simple as that.
MARTIN FARTIN,
Dyfed.
YOB: With a name like that, you've got to be a Welshman.

I'M FED UP WITH THIS

To YOB,
I didn't want to write dear because I don't have feelings for scum like you and by the way what kind of pathetic monkeys can think up such a moronic name like YOB? Also I can't understand why you get paid so much for doing so little (but that wouldn't be hard for you 'cos you're so mind numbingly brain dead). I have some questions for you and if you would answer them I might consider being grateful.
1. How much will the Gigadrive cost?
2. Will it be better than the Neo Geo and the totally over-rated SNES? About the only good games would be Streetfighter II, Contra Spirit and Super R-Type. The rest I wouldn't bother with. Mario IV would be another.
3. Will the Megadrive version of Streetfighter II be better than the SNES one?
JASON PACE and JOSH MOORES,
Australia.
YOB:
1. Nobody knows yet, not even the people designing the machine.
2. If it's anything as good or better than Sega's 32-bit arcade system then yes, if not, no.
3. The Megadrive version will be a 16-meg cart and the Championship Edition, programmed by Capcom themselves. It'll be hard to top the SNES version, but if anyone can do it Capcom are the only people who can.
P.S You australian turds.

RIGHT, THAT'S IT

Dear YOB,
I think CVG is great. I also think GO!'s great, but when I turned to page 35 in issue 132 I thought that was excellent insults, comedy even heartbreaking stories about sad people complaining about how everybody says Nintendo are better than Sega and so on. Anyway here are my questions:
1. How come most of the Super Nintendo games begin with Super? Eg Super Tennis, Super R-Type.
2. How long will it take Streetfighter 2 to reach the Amiga?
3. Is Super Mario 4 coming out on the NES? If so, when?
4. Is Super Mario 4 a two-player because I have only seen clips.
5. How come the Spectrum has Streetfighter 2 and the Amstrad doesn't?
CRAIG COYLE
Rossendale, Lancs.
YOB:
1. What word would you suggest? Stupid? I'm sure I can see everyone flocking out to buy Stupid Tennis and Stupid R-Type. Actually, they wouldn't. But they might buy a game called Stupid Craig.
2. It's that echo again. The game should be out by Christmas.
3. Not as such. There may well be another Mario outing, but if there is it will be a different game.
4. Yes, but not at the same time.
5. Because there aren't enough sad people in the world to make an Amstrad version worthwhile.

I'M NOT DOING

Dear YOB,
One day recently I had to go into our attic to put some old junk away when I came across my old Atari 2600 with a bag full of old carts. So later that evening I told some of my mates and we decided to have a few laughs playing a bit of vintage history. Dipping into the bag and grabbing the first cart that came to hand we started to play. First up came Galaxian. We had a laugh at the graphics and sound but after a short while we found that the game was still fun, with more challenge than a lot we play now. Next came Millipede and Defender, which kill most of today's shoot 'em ups dead for speed and grab factor. Don't get us wrong, we love the new games - but it does seem that we're losing a lot of old challenge to make way for better graphics and sound. Me and my friends own a variety of different machines, mine being the excellent Megadrive, but we agree that a lot of old games are still the best.
DAVE OWENS
Northampton
YOB: What can I say? I've been banging on for YEARS on this very subject, and it's good to find somebody who's seen some sense at last! You're absolutely right that many of today's games are missing that extra something which made the classics so great. You'll also be pleased to know that you're not alone! Tim's all-time favourite game is Hall Of The Things from Design Design on the humble Spectrum, while Rand's all-time Number Two (after Kick Off) is Gunship on the Commodore 64! Technical wizardry isn't necessarily a substitute for a good idea, and many of the games we're seeing today are substandard rehashes of ideas which are ages old. Why is this? Have all the good ideas run out? The simple answer is no. There are still plenty of good ideas out there, but the wrong people have them. I'll try and explain: in the old days a programmer would come up with an idea, sit down and bash out the code on his machine. He didn't work for anyone, didn't have to worry about so-called quality control and could work whenever he liked. That was how the all-time greats like Manic Miner were born. So what's gone wrong now? Computer games have become such big business that programmers are forced to work in teams to compete, often writing specific projects dictated by the software houses. These projects are dictated by business - will the game make money in the long run? - and very few people are prepared to take any risks with the result that many good ideas are left on the drawing board. The upshot of all this is that when a truly great game like Streetfighter 2 comes along everyone jumps up and down and makes a huge fuss, when there was a time people were banging out brilliant software left, right and centre! At the end of the day, though, it's all up to you lot. If you go on buying the same old games the software companies will just go on producing them. If, however, you demand something decent then maybe the people in power will take a long hard look at the future and realise that something has been lost. When was the last time ANYBODY wrote anything nearly as good as Defender? To my mind there have been very few truly great games of late - Stunt Car Racer, Formula 1, Mario 3, Mario 4 and Streetfighter 2 spring to mind, but that's about it. Unless you lot - the buying public - decides that you want better more playable games you simply won't get them. Personally I'm sick to the back teeth of sub-standard licensed games and I for one am not going to tolerate it much longer. Start shouting for your games NOW! Anyway, I'm off for an Aspirin and some Baywatch videos.

ANY MORE LETTERS

Dear YOB,
I think you are Patrick Moore off GamesMaster. Come on, admit it. You've been found out. I was watching the show and have decided he's almost as ugly and obnoxious as you are. I dare you to tell me I'm wrong!
THOMAS TACKLE
Kidderminster
YOB: You're not wrong, old son - but nevertheless Patrick isn't me. For one thing, I don't get paid for shoving a telescope out of my window and waking up the neighbourhood every time I discover something sad in the solar system...

THE GUIDE TO THE STREETS

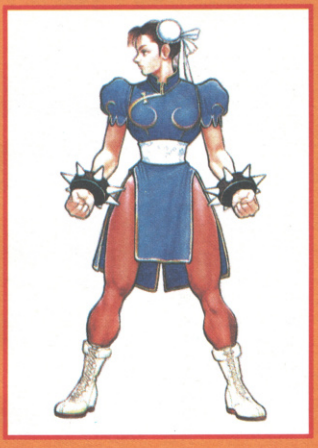
ADVANCED

STRATEGY MANUAL

PART 2

Your wait is over! Part two of CVG's incredible Streetfighter Guide is right in your hands, just waiting to share all the secrets of the Streetfighter pros so that you too can kick the crap out of everyone stupid enough to get in your way! We're now halfway through this most awesome advanced guide to the greatest console game yet seen, and this issue we take Chun Li, E Honda and Vega apart with strategy tips to end them all! There's never been anything quite like it before, so read on and enjoy the FULL lowdown on the game everyone's going barmy about!

CHUN LI



Chung Li is the only woman in the bloodthirsty Street Fighter Tournament. We use the term 'woman' lightly as this flower of the Orient is barely old enough to be out of school. However, she has broken away from the system in search of a mafia crime boss who is rumoured to have killed her father. The mysterious criminal is none other than M Bison, who has entered the fighting arena to quench his insatiable thirst for blood. Chun Li has inflicted years of hard, back-breaking training on her body to hone it in the deadly ways of Wushu, one of the deadliest martial arts. Special combat moves are the Hundred Foot Kick, Aerial Shoulder Throw and Spinning Bird Kick.

KILLER COMBINATIONS

WITH TDI RATINGS (Total Damage Inflicted)

1. Swoop in with a flying kick forwards and just skim the top of the opponent's head to land on the other side, then hit them with a full force double handed power punch whilst standing. TDI:30%

2. Stand your ground and deliver a good volley of Hundred Foot Kicks and when the opponent is stunned, backwards jump over their next desperate attack and land a flying kick. TDI:50%

3. Duck down low for one of Chun Li's incredible double foot power driving kicks and, when the opponent is on their back, quickly get up and move slightly closer for another one. Finish with a totally unexpected flying kick for maximum effect.. TDI:64%

4. Nip in for a super fast ground shoulder throw then stand upright for a double handed power punch. A somersaulting kick forwards over their heads will work wonders. TDI:55%

5. Killer Attack: when your victim is positioned two thirds of the way across the screen drive him back with a flying kick and then a full force double handed punch. He should now be well and truly blocked into the corner in a perfect position for you to wind up the Hundred Foot Kicks for total devastation. TDI:70%

WINNING TACTICS

DHALSIM: Chun Li makes mincemeat of Dhalsim, and it couldn't be easier. Whenever old rubber legs attacks with Yoda Flame or Fire he's totally open to attack for a couple of seconds. Just keep jumping about the place kicking and punching and he'll be reduced to a sack of broken bones!

GUILE: As ever Guile is the boy to beat. It doesn't matter how many times you hit him he never seems to get stunned. Attack him from very high in the air with somersaults, kicks and especially throws.

BLANKA: The green monster is surprisingly at his most vulnerable when attacking in the air, where you should always come off best if you time your attacks right. Get a good start with an easy throw at the beginning and remember he recovers very quickly.

E HONDA: Eddie uses his Hundred Hand Slap with alarming regularity, so always time your jumps to fly over it, even when it's not in evidence. Aim for his head and never land directly in front of him. Use Chun Li's toe tap on the big boy's bonce, somersault kicks and full power punches to flatten him

ZANGIEF: You shouldn't even break a nail when fighting this bozo! He's so slow and Chun Li's so fast he'll be flat on his back before he's had time to pack a change of leotards. Assume a standing position and just jump straight up lashing out with your leg every time he comes close.

KEN/RYU: The Karate boys are Dragon Punch junkies, so stay well away and time your punches to hit them where they land. They are also very vulnerable directly after a Fire Ball attack so keep at one end of the screen and wait for one to come along and jump towards them with a flying kick. Get in for very close attacks - they hate it!

HONDA

Honda has been trained in the art of Sumo wrestling from birth. Just like a prize bull he has been worked, trained and fed with the sole purpose of obtaining the title 'Yokozuna' (Grand Champion), something that he achieved by the time he was 21. After single-handedly wiping out the rest of his country's wrestlers year after year he has entered into the Street Fighter tournament to prove the worth and superiority of the Japanese giants and their fighting skills. Special Combat moves are the Hundred Hand Slap and Human Torpedo

KILLER COMBINATIONS

WITH TDI RATINGS (Total Damage Inflicted)

1. Stomp in with a flying foot kick and follow up with a massive crush.

TDI:55%

2. Another flying kick attack sets the victim up perfectly for a standing chop, full power naturally, and then finished off with a crippling foot sweep.

TDI:53%

3. Use Honda's forward jumping swat bouncing up and down as you cross the screen towards your adversary. Carried out correctly you can get three or more hits in with good timing.

TDI:55%

4. Kick out or punch as you retreat from a hostile attack and sucker the opponent into a Hundred Hand Slap as you reach the edge of the screen.

TDI:54%

5. Killer Attack: a quick crush delivered from Honda's mighty arms followed by two successive chops will set your enemies up for drastic damage loss.

TDI:75%

WINNING TACTICS

ZANGIEF: These two really pack the screen. Zangief is very slow but has an incredibly long reach that can catch you unawares at inopportune moments. However he's as predictable as Chun Li and will jump/walk into Hundred Hand Slaps no bother. Smack him about a bit and then jump in with a kick and a throw.

BLANKA: The two are very similar in their methods of attack. Blanka is thwarted by the Hundred Hand Slap, he can't get in close and can't use his electricity or Spinning Ball attack as it'll stop him in his tracks. The only thing he can do is jump up and kick you. This can be stopped if you see it coming in time by jumping up and getting a slap or kick in first.

DHALSIM: One of the only characters Dhalsim can trouble is Edward Honda. Blubberbutt is as slow as the sinewed Indian in the air, so the best tactic to use is to stand your ground and let him come to you then swat him from the air with a chop and couch down with kicks for ground attacks. Defend all the time as Dhalsim tries to rubberise you with blows.

KEN/RYU: A good combination of chops, sweeps and Hundred Handers should sort these guys out. On level 7 they're incredibly hard to get in the crush, so don't even bother. Instead, throw them to the ground with the blue button and follow through.

GUILE: Once you've begun to attack don't give Guile the chance to use any Sonic Booms. Honda has a surprisingly long reach with his kicks and Guile likes to get down low for his attacks so a swift combination of low and high attacks coupled with some throws will send him reeling. It's best to avoid using the Hundred Hander as it takes too long to warm up. Jump over Sonic attacks and attack with the blue button.

CHUN LI: Chun Li may be one of the most useful characters to fight with, but as an opponent she's as predictable as the inevitable arrival of Christmas. The wench attacks you with alarming regularity by jumping into the air and trying to land a kick. By simply waiting for this and jumping on the spot you'll rob her of 80% of her damage with a kick before she knows what year it is!

VEGA

Vega's garb of metal face plate, armoured arm and steel claws make him look like he's just stepped out of a gore fest horror movie. The former matador has given up his bullfighting days in order to take on more challenging prey - humans. He's incredibly agile and leaps about all over the arena in a blink of an eye, making him extremely hard to hit. However, his vanity is often his downfall as he likes to hang back and show off rather than getting stuck in and finishing the job in one go. The secret to taming him is to anticipate his every move and make an attack before he does!

BLANKA: Vega gives a hard time to everyone who takes him on, especially Blanka. Electricity is useless and you'll soon realise that you're really up against it. You can lob him one by hopping around and hitting him with medium punch. When retreating jump backwards and kick and you might be lucky and score a hit!

GUILE: Very tricky, but it can be done. When he jumps towards you, try and gauge where he's going to land and upper-cut. Jump towards him with a series of flying kicks and with good timing you'll get in at least four hits before he can react. Retreat backwards spinning and jumping and then repeat the process.

KEN/RYU: When the Spaniard is about to spring off the wall, go to the far edge of the screen and somersault backward and kick followed by a close upper-cut and retreat - fast! When not in this mode of fighting stay away or it's curtains for you.

BLANKA: Vega gives a hard time to everyone who takes him on, especially Blanka. Electricity is useless, but you can lob him one by hopping around and hitting him with medium punch. When retreating jump backwards and kick and you might be lucky and score a hit!

CHUN LI: Protect yourself from attack with the Hundred Foot Kick, especially when the boy drops in on you from above. Chun Li is quite well matched to Vega as they are both fast in the air. Although she can dodge his attacks it's quite hard to land a hit. Punching will get you nowhere, even shoulder throws and aerial throws only come off by fluke. Stick to kicking and remember to keep on the move!

BEATING VEGA

ZANGIEF: You can forget about beating Vega on any of the higher levels - Zangief's just too crap! However, try standing still and grabbing him for some pile driving antics. Pixel perfect timing is the only way to succeed and it's guaranteed to take you days before you can beat him.

DHALSIM: With Vega's incredible speed in the air this is a case of the turtle and the hare! Stay on the ground and slide boy! Slide! Cover long distances with rubber arms, but remember they are just as vulnerable as your body to attack.

NINTENDO AND SEGA ARE THE ACKNOWLEDGED TRADE MARKS OF THEIR RESPECTIVE COMPANIES

CHEAT MODE

WELCOME one and all to another slice of the greatest games hints and tips section in the known cosmos, courtesy of the cheekest little tyke in the western world. That's right, PAUL ANGLIN has finally pulled off his long-standing CVG coup and taken over Cheat Mode! And that's just the start of the changes you're going to see to Britain's brightest cheats section. With loads of goodies going on and even more planned for the future, you're going to be side-swiped by the superbness of these very pages soon! The fun starts next issue, so send all your top tips, maps and unwanted Air Miles to: COR BLIMEY THIS CHEAT MODE STUFF IS SO EXCITING I NEARLY DROPPED MY CHIPS SHAZ, CVG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, FARRINGDON, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. There's a staggering ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY POUNDS worth of games for the best of the lot - so get to it sharpish!

STEEL EMPIRE

Irish hero Bob Mooney has managed to deliver this top tip all the way from the Emerald Isle, so the least we can do is print his top tippery: When the Sega logo appears keep your fingers on A and START. You will now be on stage two!

MOONWALKER

More Bob Mooney malarkey, this time on the so-so Jacko game. To start on any level except six hold UP, LEFT and A then press START on controller one. When the words stage one come up use the pad to pick a stage.

GOLDEN AXE II

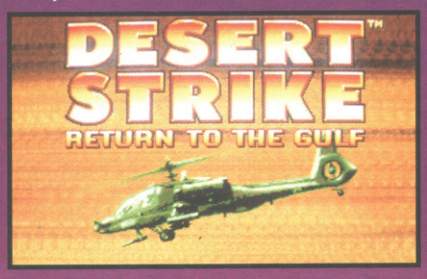
This hack and slash fest may be exactly the same as the original, but that hasn't stop Jim Lendall of Watford finding a top cheat. To get bonus magic when you reach a boss monster, follow the following: hold down the A button and fight the battle. After you beat the boss release the A button when you enter the bonus stage. Don't attack any of the wizards and when the next level begins you'll have full magic!

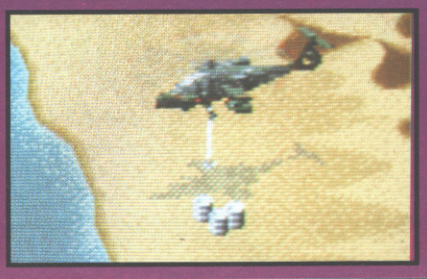
TOEJAM AND EARL

Paradise may be a hard place to find but Alisatir Lindsay from Cambuslang Galsgow reckons he's done it. To enter the secret level, go to level three and grab yourself a pair of Icarus Wings and fly to an island in the bottom left hand corner of the map. Fall down the hole in the middle and Paradise awaits you. Hurrah!

DESERT STRIKE

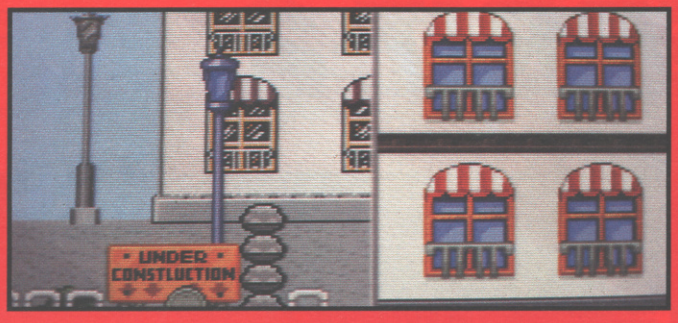
The lad known to all as Davey Smith from Longsight, Manchester has sent in another Desert Strike Code - and I'm certainly not going to turn him away. Just type in BQQQAEZ and you'll have ten lives!

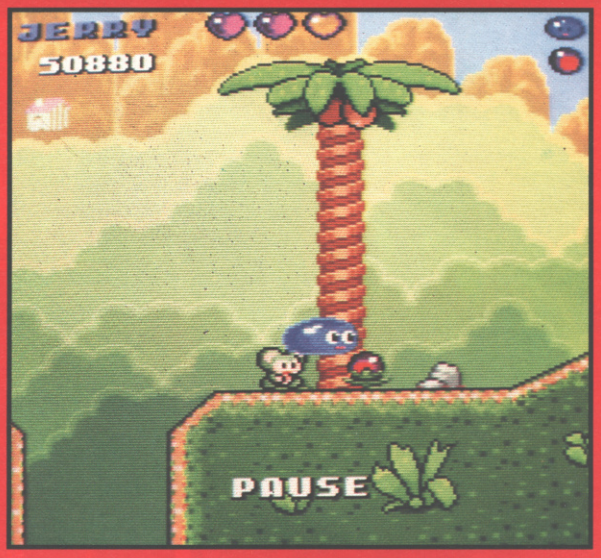




JERRY BOY

Jeremy may be a rather strange blue blob, but Darren Wymer from Mill proves he's more than a match with this tasty tip! For a level select screen when the game says Push Start, try this instead: push UP, DOWN, DOWN, LEFT, RIGHT, LEFT, RIGHT, B, A, SELECT and START. Good, eh?





MAGIC SWORD

One of the more, erm, varied games on the SNES is subjected to Mark Eustace from Slough, Berkshire and the result is this: to get an extra option screen both controllers must be plugged in. Go to the option screen with controller one and highlight Exit but do not press anything. On the second control pad press and hold L, R and START. With all of these held, press START on controller one. Now you'll be taken to a new option screen where you can select your vitality and game level!

SUPER OFF ROAD

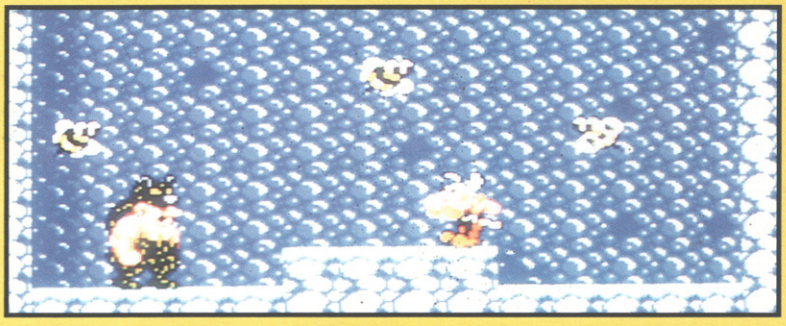
The rather excellent Leon Woodley from Sydney sends greetings from Australia and this fine tiplet to boot. For an unlimited amount of continues select a two player game and play as the red car. When the race ends you'll be third and the blue car now has unlimited continues!

RIVAL TURF

What better way to waste away your hours at Hodcerill Boarding School than to bash out some cheats on Rival Turf - and that's just what Alex Heffer has done here, so over to him: there is a secret warp which takes you to the end of level four. To use this you must have thirty or more defeated enemies represented by small heads which appear above your energy bar. When you get to the part of the fourth level where there is a door, press UP at the first door to go into it. If you don't have thirty or more enemies shown at the top of the screen when you get here the cheat will not work, so make sure you do.

ASTERIX

Dickie Carter from Clitheroe, Lancashire, has found a great cheat for this game starring the rock-hard gaul. On level 3-3 whilst you're on the moving platform, you'll see three gold coins. Get them. Now instead of jumping back onto the platform, jump up so Asterix is off the screen. Walk right, pick up the bags, go through the door and bash the pot for bonuses galore!



XENON 2

John Lim Eng Hooi wins this month's Flip Me Where's That Then? Award for the furthest distance travelled by any tip - this one comes all the way from Selangor, Malaysia! When the computer prompts you to select graphics adaptor, press F7 instead of Enter. When you are playing press I and watch what happens. Sadly this only works on some PCs, but give it a go anyway.

PRINCE OF PERSIA

Crikey! Young Johnny doesn't hang about, does he? Not one but two mentions in the greatest tips section of them all! At the A: prompt type "PRINCE MEGAHIT" instead of "PRINCE" and now pressing these combos gives you goodies galore:

SHIFT+L - skips one level
SHIFT+T - adds one life triangle
SHIFT+I = flips the screen
+ and - = adds and decreases time by one minute.

ROBOCOD

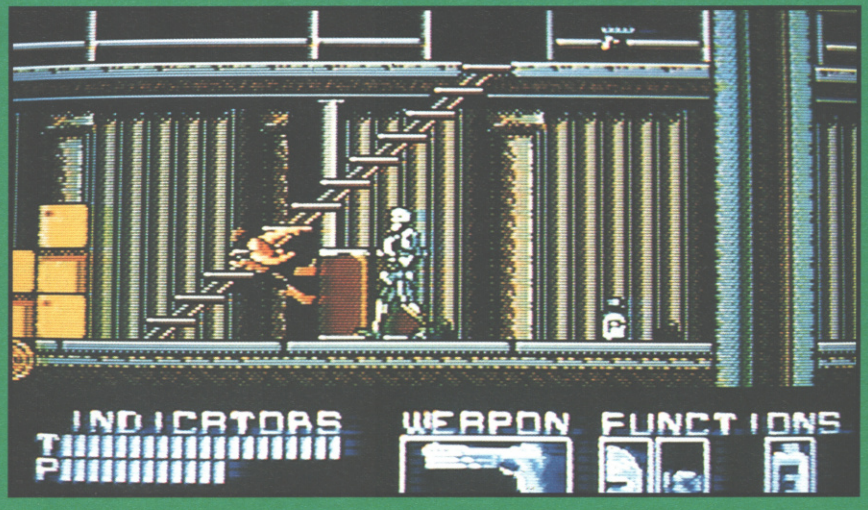
It may be a little kids' film but the strangely named Big T from Cambridge has found a great use for the little mermaid. Type "The Little Mermaid" for infinite lives and invincibility! And there's more - if you're not happy with that press M after typing in the little mermaid for a level select screen.

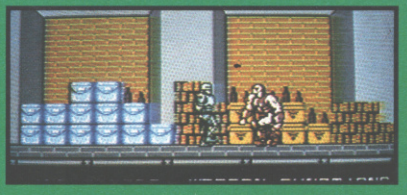
LOTUS ESPRIT 2

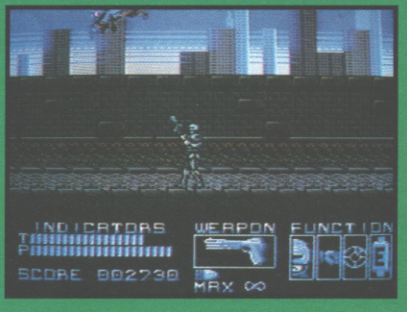
Andy Oliphiant knows a good tip when he sees one. On the option screen type "TURPENTINE" and cruise through the levels while your time stays on ten.

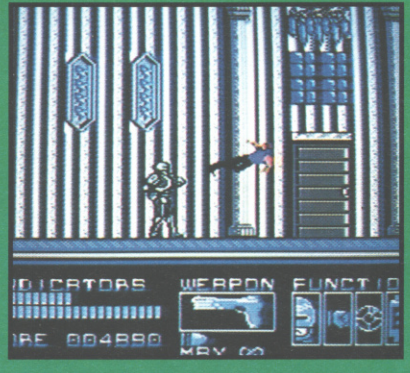
ROBOCOP

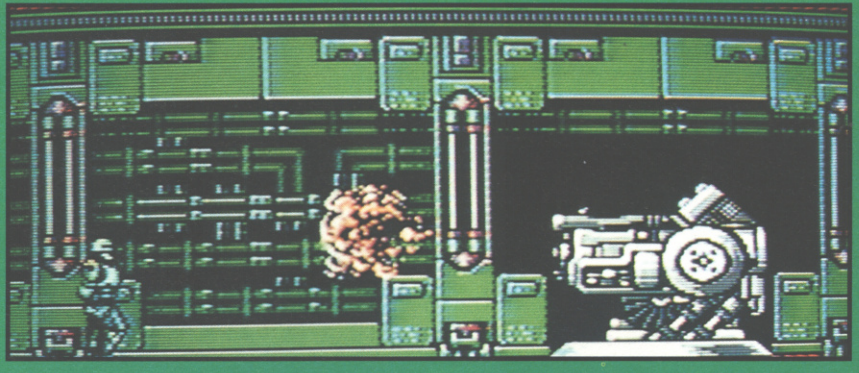
Rohan Truscott is the latest Aussie to grab some fame with Cheat Mode, and he knows a top tip when he sees one as well: when all your continues have been used press A, B, SELECT and START for infinite continues and the chance to be as cool as him.









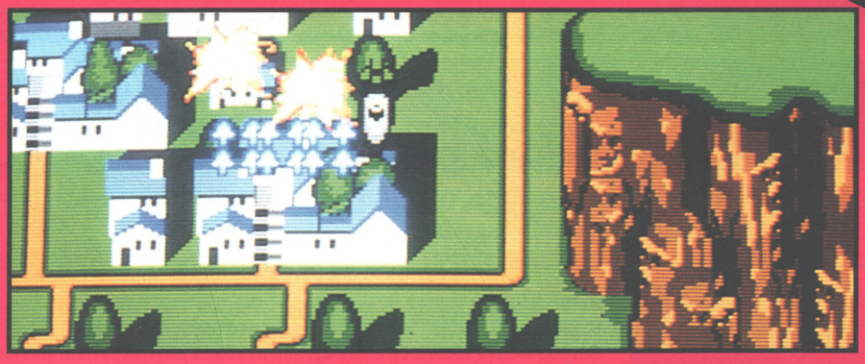


BATTLETOADS

Tim Cederman of Sydney, Australia, with some warping wonderment. On level one kill the first two baddies (easiest in two player mode). Go right and on the ledge there will be a warp. Jump into it immediately and you will be instantly transported to level three. On level three after the green check point drive past nine blocks and just before the tenth there is a warp to level five!

TWIN BEE

Oh what a great cheat this one is! Coincidentally, it was found by yours truly. Who says I play games all day? On the title screen using pad two (better have a multi tap though) press UP, UP, DOWN, DOWN, RIGHT, LEFT, RIGHT, LEFT, I and II for ten lives!



DEVIL CRASH

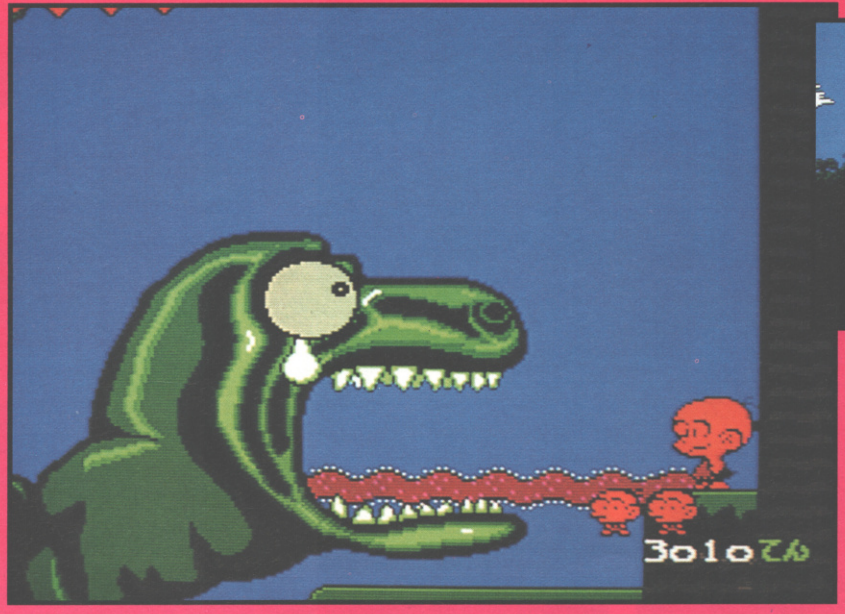
Peter Hartigan has manages to grab two Cheat Mode-related celebrations thanks to this little number: to see the end sequence simply type DAVIDWHITE as the entry code.

JACKIE CHAN

It's time to unleash Jamie Cork from Dagenham and his top tip: on the title screen press UP, DOWN, LEFT, RIGHT and button II. If you've done it correctly a bell should ring. Hold down SELECT and RUN to get a level select screen!

PC KID II

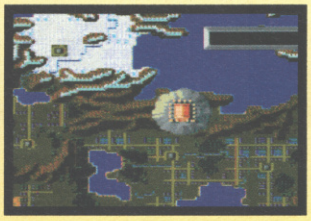
Derek Winn comes from Highbury, London, but never mind because here's his tip: to practice all the bonus rounds go to the difficulty setting menu, Press and hold button II and push RUN.



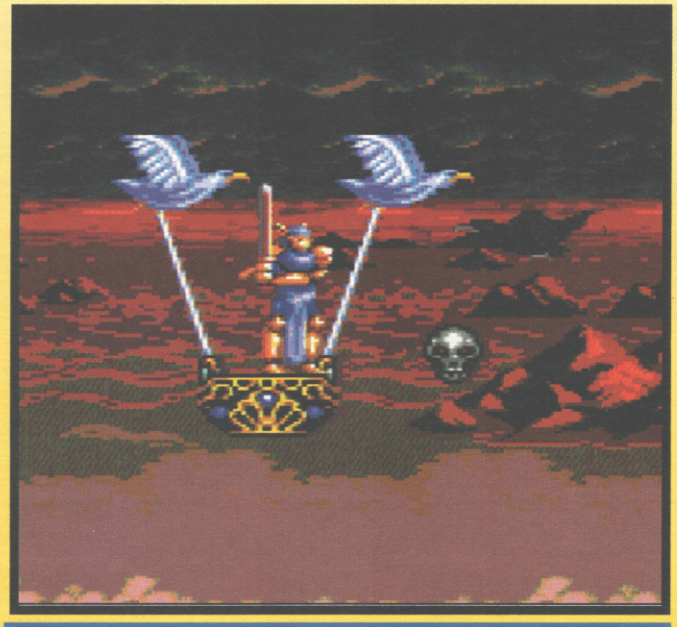
DARIUS (CD)

This months first PC Engine cheat wings it's way to us from the heart of Essex that wonderful place they call Romford. Off you go, Peter Hartigan. To change the difficulty settings hold down on the joypad plus buttons I, II and Run.

ACTRA



Here it is! The second and final part of the complete CVG Actraiser guide, put together by none other than sword wielding CVG half-pint Paul Anglin. So without further ado, and more jokes at the expense of his rather sad double earrings, let's invite the lad to take it away!



AITOS

ACT I

This Catherine Wheel look-a-like requires precision and skill to defeat. This guy bounces around the screen so much that it's impossible to find a working strategy for him. The first thing to do is, as soon as you start, jump onto the platform that you're directly underneath and hack away. You'll be able to get in about five or six hits before he moves. When he does, just stand your ground and he will roll into you - keep hitting your fire button and you'll hit him. He will then drop onto the floor, roll to the other side and come back over to you. Simply repeat the process until he dies. This will take a bit of your energy down but it's very effective.

CREATION

There's only one thing that you have to pick up on Aitos and that's the sheep's fleece. Make certain that you pick this up, because it is essential when you get to Northwall. Firstly, clear all the rocks around the shrine to reveal the skull-head lairs. Ensure these are the first lairs that you seal as they are by far the most dangerous. When the people get unhappy about the lack of wind, just send the great wind and they'll be over the moon once again.

ACT II

Firstly, if you haven't got the crescent shot thing you're well and truly stuffed, but you'd have to be a bit of a sad man to miss it anyway. When you get to the Serpent's lair, jump across to the third platform and stay there. You can only be hit by the monster's head - his tail will not harm you. One of, if not the, easiest guardian in the entire game.

MARAHNA

ACT 1

One of the most complex guardians in the game. He's hiding at the far right of the screen, so walk straight over there. On your way the monster will fire a jelly-fish-type thing. Kill this straight away, as the longer you leave it the harder it will get. You will notice that there are two pads in the middle of the stream; these are very useful for killing the jellyfish. You will also see that, sticking out of the main part of the monster, there is a beak - this is what you have to hit. The other thing to avoid is the tentacle which will cause you endless problems. Stand just in front of the beak and jump and hit it. When the tentacle gets to you, walk to the far right of the screen, wait until it stops and then jump and attack. The key thing is to do this slowly.

CREATION

As soon as you arrive in Marahana, cause an earthquake. This will join the small island at the top of the screen to the main one. You must do this before you start building because an earthquake will destroy any buildings that have been put up by your people. Then begin to destroy all of the palm trees so that your people will have enough room to build.

ACT II

This Voodoo child is pretty easy, provided you don't get too close. The way to do it is to edge toward him until you see the spikes come out of the base. This means that he's going to drop down on you, so move back a little and, when he drops down, you should be able to get a few hits in - but be quick. His energy bolt is dead easy to jump and you'd have to be a bit of a sad man to get hit by it. If he throws a platform down at you, get out of the way and jump onto it - let it take you up so you can get a few hits in.

NORTHWALL

ACT I

This flying terror doesn't have a strict attack pattern as such, which makes life somewhat difficult. When he flies overhead he will drop rocks and although they don't harm you, it's the water they splash that you must watch for. Avoid the splashes and, just before he drops a rock, he becomes immobilised so hit him quickly. When he swoops down there's no way to stop him from hitting you - just hack away and you'll hit him more times than he hits you.

ISER

COMPLETE GUIDE PART 2

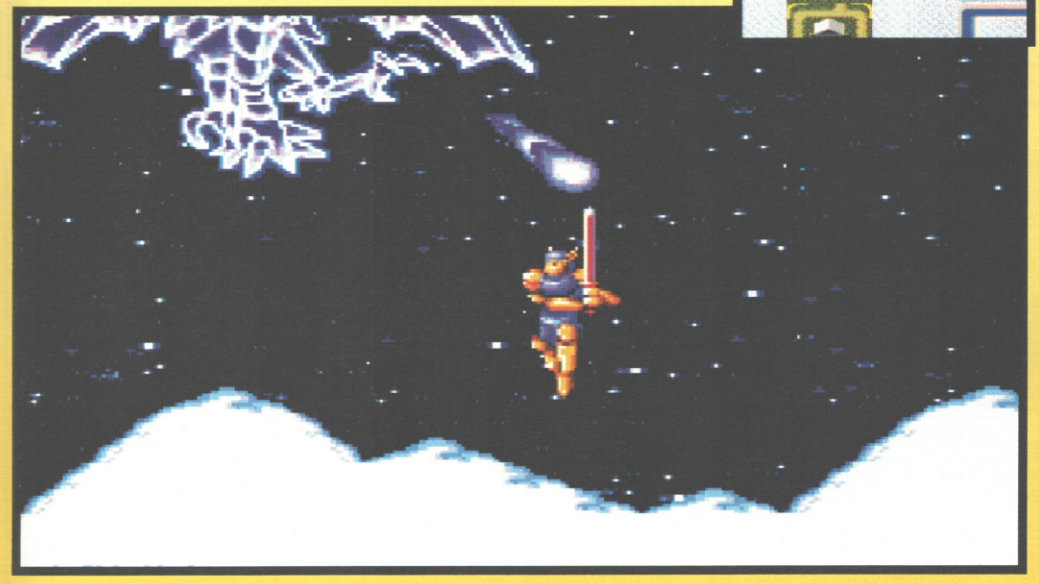
CREATION

When your people moan that they're cold, use the sheep's fleece that you picked up in Aitos to warm them up. Hang around for as long as you can on the Northwall creation, because you'll need to get your level up nice and high to get through Death Heim.

ACT II

Big Bird is the last guardian before you reach Death Heim. To defeat him, run to the left of the platform and wait until he stops, then get behind him and use your jumping attack while he's firing rocks at you. As he swoops down use your magic on him. When he's moving around the screen there's no way to stop him hitting you, so just swing your sword in his direction.



DEATH HEIM

First thing you'll notice is that you don't have to fight every end of level guardian - just one from each area. You must have three lives when you reach Death Heim, otherwise you'll not be able to complete the game. The final guardian comes in two parts - the first is the head of doom. Dodge the shooting stars, making sure you're not positioned too close to the enemy (you'll be able to see it above your head). When he fires - if you're positioned right - you should be right in the middle of the two shots, which won't come into contact with you. Fire off as many shots as you can before he comes again and repeat the process.

The second enemy is a large yet surprisingly easy-to-beat dragon. When he fires twin shots at you, position yourself in the middle of them. This will take some practice before you find the right spot. When he fires coloured stars (he'll fire them four at a time) shoot them as soon as possible, otherwise they'll catch up with you and cause all sorts of problems. You can only hit him when his brain is exposed, but it's possible to get about three or four hits in before it goes back in. When it does he'll then fire the twin shots again - just repeat the process until he dies. Then sit back and watch the end sequence. You've earned it!

CVG OFFICIAL U

Dear Wimp's...

Another month sweeps by and with it another instalment of top games scores from around the world. The Official UK High Scores tables are distributed around every newsagent, paper emporium, ghetto and country in the known universe, including those tiny little republics that are usually less well known than the particular brand of biscuit or wool that they manufacture. So, if you're not in it you're not on the map and the rest of the world is having a right old laugh at your expense. Now I know that no one's scores are higher than CVG's readers, but who's going to know about them if you don't tell me? So get 'em down on paper and send them in to: OFFICIAL UK HIGH SCORES, COMPUTER AND VIDEO GAMES, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE. PRIORY COURT, LONDON EC1R 3AU. So stop messing about and get down to business

Sadie

AMIGA

Amiga gamers have done themselves proud yet again, with some really outstanding High Scores. Pinball Dreams continues to be the most popular entry in my bag - with scores from every table smashing onto the sceen. Nice one Noel!

PINBALL DREAMS - STEEL WHEEL - 191,499,240
Noel Griffiths, Aldershot

FIRST SAMURAI - 709,460
Ian Cunnings, West Sussex

LOTUS 2 - (10) 4,661,580
(Round the clock once)
Paul Drew, Whitstable

ARCADE

Oldies rub shoulders with the new boys on the table this month. An astounding score from Andrew Bolt on Big Run and Paul Noble handles the Terminator with relative ease. Keep them coming and you won't be disapointed.

THUNDER FORCE - 2,430,630
Andrew Bolt, Yorks

BIG RUN - 1,973,240
Andrew Bolt, Yorks

TERMINATOR 2 - 7,863,500

ART OF FIGHTING - 5th Round
Michael Denvir, Ireland

CAARIER AIRWING - 980,320
Daren Goss, Hampstead

GAMEBOY

Not a bad selection of scores this month, but don't let that stop you! Slackers are simply not allowed, so rack up those big points and impress me or there'll be trouble!

BART SIMPSON E.F.C.D. - 220,154
(Completed with 11 men)
Michael Sipari, Guilford

NAVY SEALS - 85,750

Iain Lees, Montrose

MEGADRIVE

What's this? You Megadrive boys had better snap to it before I have to crack a few skulls! This bunch of scores isn't fit to grace the floor, let alone my hallowed passages! Things had better get a move on - and FAST.

QUACK SHOT - 122,880,441
Paul Nobble, Bedfordshire

JAMES POND - 2,640,000
Paul Nobble, Bedfordshire

SONIC THE HEDGEHOG - 1,885,600

Joseph Carroll, Kent

GHOULS 'N' GHOSTS - 999,800
Joseph Carroll, Kent

SUPER CASTLEVANIA - 205,910
Matthew Hall, Bristol

NES

Once again NES entries are very thin on the ground. What's the matter with you wimps? I can't believe such a sorrowful, pitiful collection of weedy scores are being submitted before my eyes. Get scoring!

CONTRA - 180,780
Simon Jeffries, London

TEENAGE MUTANT HERO TURTLES - 230,700
James Coleman, Sussex

DUCK TALES - 1,580,700
Andrew Holt, Harrow

BATTLE TOADS- Completed With One Life
Stuart Marsters, Cambridge

DONKEY KONG JNR - 150,670
Adam Day, Berkshire

SUPER NINTENDO

Now this is more like the scores I'm used to seeing. Particular praise has to go to Leigh Jackson, who looks like he could become a regular in the High Scores hall of fame with his increadible Smash TV bashing. What about the rest of you? Are you man enough?

SUPER CASTLEVANIA 4 - 205,910
Matthew Hall, Bristol

STREET FIGHTER 2 - 3,645,424
Filthy Lying Talentless Get Jeremy Cox, Berkshie - You Can't Get That Score!

Amir Ali, The Netherlands

SUPER R-TYPE - 3,463,135
Paul Noble, Bedfordshire

F-ZERO - 70,996
Gurdeed Singh, Lancs

MASTERSYSTEM

What is the matter with you people? High scores, maybe, but considering the amount of Master Systems out there, I expect more than four top efforts! Let's see a change for the better next month!

ALEX KID IN MIRACLE LAND - 102,000
Matt Yeardley, Sheffield

ASTERIX - 240,400 (Completed 1 Credit)

Official UK High Scores

Dear Wimp's

Here it is - your chance to prove you're a great gamer and win the fame of your name in the Official High Scores and the chance to play against the CVG boys themselves! The CVG stars reckon they're the greatest when it comes to games and can beat the pants off any of you puny wimpos, so it's up to you to prove them wrong! I'll be picking the hottest players of the lot and invite them down to CVG Towers to play against the boys themselves - and every month the hotshot who I reckon is the greatest gamer will win themselves an incredible framed and signed photo of yours truly! So if you want fame, fortune, a crack against the CVG boys and the greatest gaming trophy in the land just rack up those points, fill out this form and send it off to: OFFICIAL UK HIGH SCORES, COMPUTER AND VIDEO GAMES, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. Remember, you've got to be in it to win it, so get to it wimpos!

Sadie

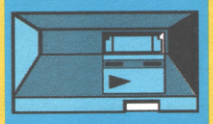
MASTER SYSTEM

BEAT EM UP

BY SEGA
£32.99



It's a sorry old world, but you just can't help but come across folk beating seven shades out of each other these days. Three of the hardest lads around have gathered together with some of the meanest battlers in the city for a scrap which makes Streetfighting look like a walk in the park! These boys - and girls - settle their differences in ultra-violent, underground tournaments for cash and glory. You become one of these fighters in Pitfighter, the Master System version of the top-rated Atari coin-op. One or two players go up against the creme de la creme of the town's fighting stock for vast sums of money, not to mention the accolade of victory over the big bad baddy - The Ultimate Warrior!

We've seen conversions of Pitfighter on Megadrive, Super Nintendo and Amiga, and only the Amiga version has come anywhere near the standard of the excellent arcade original. We weren't really expecting the Master System incarnation to fare much better than the other console versions - but never in a million years did we expect it to be this bad! I'm frankly appalled that Sega have the nerve to put this trash out on the streets, never mind charge money for it - everything about this game smells of something particularly unpleasant. Graphics are nothing short of a joke: tiny little figures with animation that looks as though it's been ripped out of a four-page flick book. Sound fares little better - effects are paltry and music offensive to the ear. And as for gameplay - Sega have obviously forgotten that they're supposed to put some in. Pitfighter? Swap the P for Sh and you're somewhere nearer the truth.

CVG 078 PAUL ANGLIN

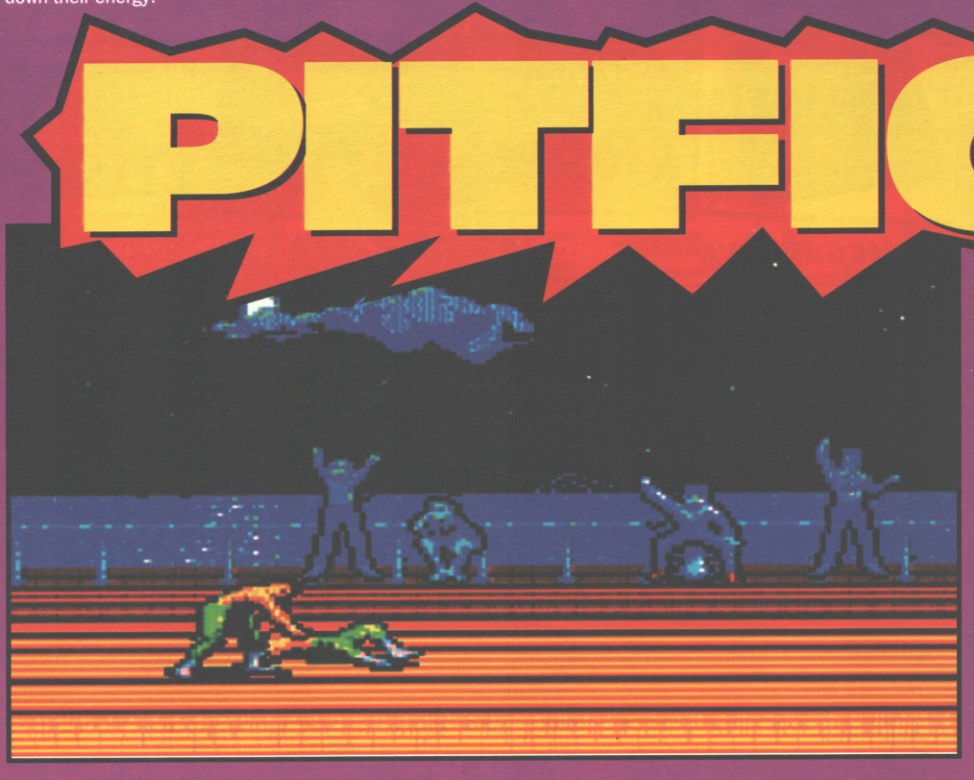
CRATING HAVOC

The organisers of the Pitfighter tournament are a thoughtful bunch - to save you from having to continuously use your fists and feet to beat the other guy, they've placed weapons on various levels to help you get the job done quicker. Grab knives, shurikens and even big wooden crates to hurl at your enemies, then punch them in the face while they're unconscious on the floor to whittle down their energy!

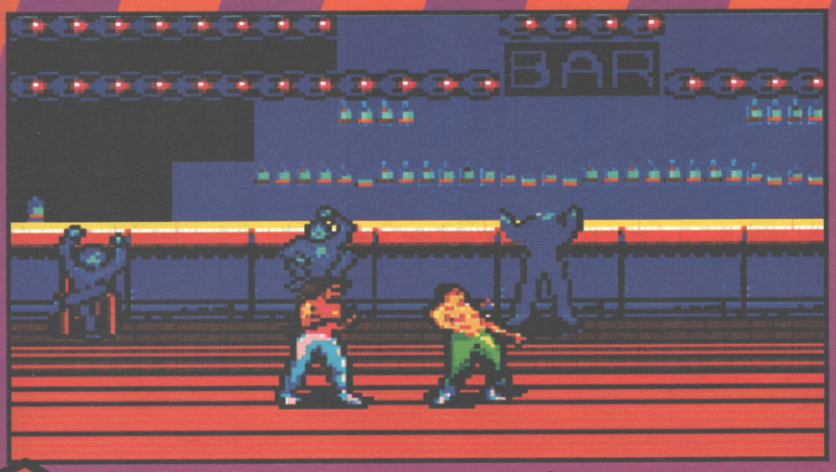


BEARING A GRUDGE

After every few fights, a grudge match is called to sort out the men from the boys. If you're playing in one player mode, you effectively take on yourself, while when playing with a friend you get to kick him in. The object of this is to knock down your opponent three times - achieve this before he does and watch that brutality bonus soar.

ONE OR TWO? IT'S UP TO YOU

There are a trio of Pitfighters to choose from at the start of the game - Buzz is a muscle-bound hardman who uses his brute strength to defeat his opponents, whilst Kato and Ty are trained in martial arts and rely on skills to overcome any foe. Choose one player mode and you go up against one baddy at a time, but plug in a second joypad and two fighters can take on an equal number of enemies - beat 'em both to move to the next stage.



GHTER

SAD SCRAPS

This is a big tournament, so it stands to reason that there are going to be lots of opponents for the pitfighting boys to smack. Some are sad, but on later levels they get more difficult to beat. That's the theory. In this conversion, all of the characters are a doddle to kick in and anyway, you'll feel so nauseous upon powering up the cart that you'll probably switch off half way through the first battle!

Oh dear oh dear. Just when you thought Master System games had started to get so much better, along comes a cartridge catastrophe so completely crap it almost defies belief. To call this shambling sad effort a game is an insult to decent software everywhere, and this pathetic excuse for entertainment must rank one of the most dire abrasions on the backside of the console world. There's absolutely nothing to recommend about the game, except that you can always turn it off. In fact, don't ever bother turning it on. The shambling graphics are so poor that one of those game and watches could do better, sound is so bad you'd rather play in silence and as for gameplay, well, there isn't any! Somebody obviously decided that since the game had done so well on Megadrive they'd shove it out on Master System and watch it soar to the top of the charts. Well, not while I've got anything to do with it. DO NOT BUY THIS GAME BECAUSE IT'S COMPLETE CRAP. Simple as that.

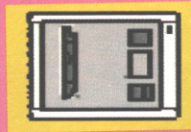
MARIO PAINT™

SUPER NINTENDO

ART PROGRAME

By NINTENDO
£60.00



He's everyone's favourite Italian plumber and he's a bit of a boy as well! Not only can Mario do away with Bowser and race little Karts really fast, he can paint as well! Yessiree Bob, the Brooklyn boyo is destined to follow in the footsteps of the greats - Picasso, Da Vinci, Renoir and Billington! Now you can take part in some painting antics of your own on your Super Nintendo with Mario Paint, Nintendo's answer to Sega's rather tawdry Art Alive. This has to be the strangest Mario licence to date, but can the moustachioed megastar do it yet again? Let's take a look!

Nintendo had their work cut out for them with this. They could have just turned in a reasonable effort and it would have still stood head and shoulders above Sega's rather poor Art Alive in every department, but instead they've turned in a brilliant little art package that would excite even the saddest of artists amongst you. As simple an idea as it seems, the inclusion of the mouse and mat is the main reason why the package is so user friendly and, although it may put the price of Mario Paint up a little, it's a real boon to budding Super Nintendo Salvadors. Many Mario trademarks crop up in Mario Paint and the subgame is the best example - very simple but a real good laugh. The music mode is a real treat, giving you the opportunity to make your picture stand out, and the animation option literally brings your art to life. Tons of fun!

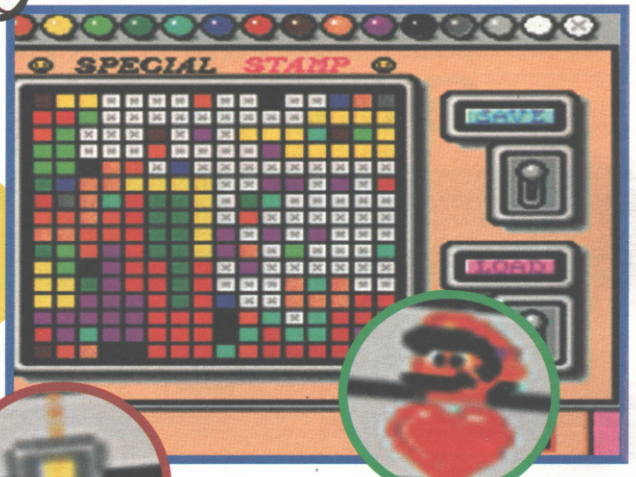
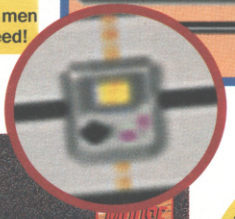
THE FLICKS

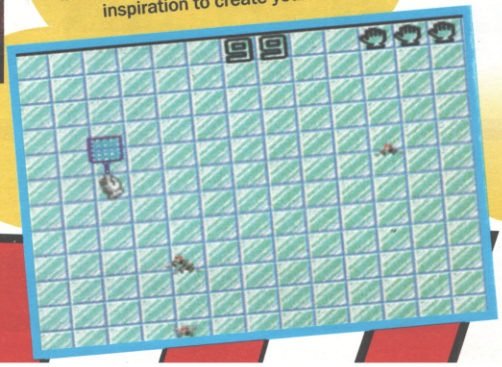
Even the most incredible piccy can get a bit dull - but just think what it would be like if you could give your art a bit of life. In Mario Paint you can! The special animation feature allows you to put up to six frames of movement into your creations - and they are surprisingly good. It's best to keep the movement simple because, with only half a dozen frames, you can't do anything particularly spectacular - but we've had stick men doing some very odd things indeed!





DAMN FLIES

Even Picasso took time out from painting pretty pictures and, in Mario Paint, so can you! There's a separate little game in there to keep you amused, in the form of a fly-swatting bonanza. You control said insect repellant and you've got to kill all the flies and other nasties which swarm onto your screen. Boring and sad it may sound, but it's actually a good laugh, providing a bit of a breather while you're waiting for some divine inspiration to create your next Old Master.



SQUEAK SQUEAK

Unlike the tragedy which was Art Alive, Mario Paint comes with a mouse to help you create your piccies rather than relying on the more-than-inadequate artistic capabilities of a joypad. Most of you will have used a mouse before, and you'll know that it's a comfortable piece of equipment to work with - and the word is that it will be used in certain other games as well, the first of which is probably going to be King Arthur's Quest!

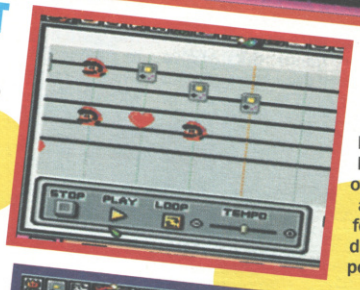
REVIEW

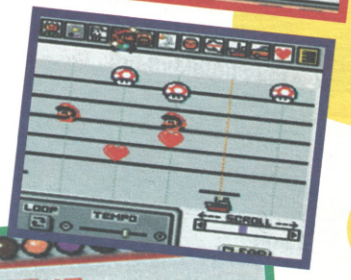
Right, let's face it - this is the sort of cartridge your parents are going to buy you for Christmas because you're a bit crap at drawing and they think it'll do some good. Well actually they'd be right, but luckily Mario Paint is also an excellent laugh! Mario's all over the place to help you along, and some of the effects you can create on your SNES are superb. Initially I found it quite difficult to get into, but Mario Paint grows on you and the better you become the more you want to learn. Sound is very jolly and graphics, well, as good as you can make them! The addition of the bonus game is icing on the cake really, and you'll need it when you're trying to work out what to draw next. Mario Paint is one of those carts you don't think will ever come out of its box, and before you know it you're using it all the time! One of the best "edutainment" packages around.

TIM BOONE

HIT THE RIGHT NOTES

If you get tired of drawing, or wish to spice up your masterpiece with a few, er, sonics, why not take advantage of Mario Paint's incredible music feature? There are around twenty different sound effects to use, and once they've all been placed on the scoresheet you can change the tempo, put your tune on a loop and save your faves. And who plays the music for you? Mario, of course! Added to that, there are three pre-set tunes which you can jive to. These include a variation of the Mario theme and Twinkle Twinkle Little Star. Thankfully there's no mention of Tetris by Doctor Spin, for this alone would have wiped 20 per cent off the score...





PAINT BY NUMBERS

If your drawings aren't particularly good then you can always opt to colour in some that Mario and pals have already created for you. There are four different drawings - a pic of Yoshi and his pet plumber, an underwater paradise of mermaids, fish and other such aquatic life, a sketch of a top birthday present and a nice educational picture with lots of different animals accompanied by their names. The fun thing is that you can change the pics a little, so you can have all manner of strange yet colourful incidents bursting out of your screen!

GET YOUR HAIR CUT-BY PAUL ANGLIN

Bold and impressive work, so unusual of its creator. The forced perspective and four-dimensional form of this little known masterpiece was not so much the result of any latent talent, but more to the threat of a boot up the backside. The results speak for themselves.

RAND AT WORK

-BY STEVE KEEN

Subtle brushwork suffused with early Renaissance influence, this lesser known work is clearly the product of a deeply disturbed mind. The work ethic of stability and discipline is clearly at odds with the subject, whose contribution to this Review merely reinforces the sad, pathetic truth.

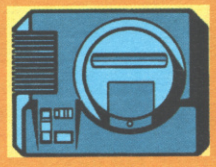
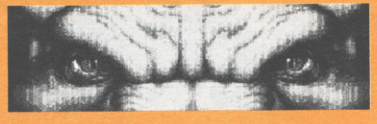
3-D STRATEGY

BY VIRGIN
£39.99



Technology has allowed mankind to achieve many wonderful things - space travel, satellites, wall tellies and, er, a genetically engineered killing machine. Universal Cybernetics Corporation were actually designing a domestic robot to do all the jobs you and I hate so much. But something went horribly wrong, or did it? Now there's speculation about the original purpose of the machine due to the ease with which it eliminates people. So the government has sent you, CyberCop, deep into UCC Headquarters to see what exactly is going on and pinch the mutant robot for a closer look.



I have to admit I'm not usually a fan of this type of game - there's usually too much work involved and not enough death and destruction. It has to be said, however, that this is a damned good example of a 3D strategy blast fest. Provided you've read the manual and persevere with the control method, it won't be long before you're hooked. There's no way you're going to get through this one in a couple of weeks, and some of the levels will have you tearing your hair out. Graphics look very good and sound is pretty limited but provides some smart little effects. The main worry was how the control method would stand up on a joypad. Designers Core have solved the problem with a nifty control method and this is a well decent cart if you prefer games which require some thought.

CYBER-COP

GET YOUR KIT HERE

Your agent may be a real tough guy, but you can't expect him to stuff everyone with his bare hands. Once you've selected your character you are given the choice of what equipment to start with, and won't even be offered stuff you can't afford or carry. The list of equipment is endless, everything from the obligatory weaponry to a rather obscure power lead. All are essential, but only on certain missions. We'll leave you to work out which!

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

There are a total of six different pre-generated characters to choose from in Cybercop - two men, two women and two cyborgs. All have their own extensive list of statistics, with attributes ranging from manual dexterity to skills with an Elastoplast. The more standard characters are better for learning the game, but once you've worked out the way it all works you'll be able to build up a specialist with your own modifications.

DON'T I KNOW YOU FROM SOMEWHERE?

If CyberCop looks a little familiar, you'd be right. The game originally appeared on the Amiga and ST about two years ago under the name of Corporation. It was a huge success and now looks set to do the same on the Megadrive. Many people thought the game could not translate because of the constrol method, but it works well on Megadrive and there's very little difference between the console and computer versions.

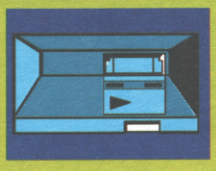
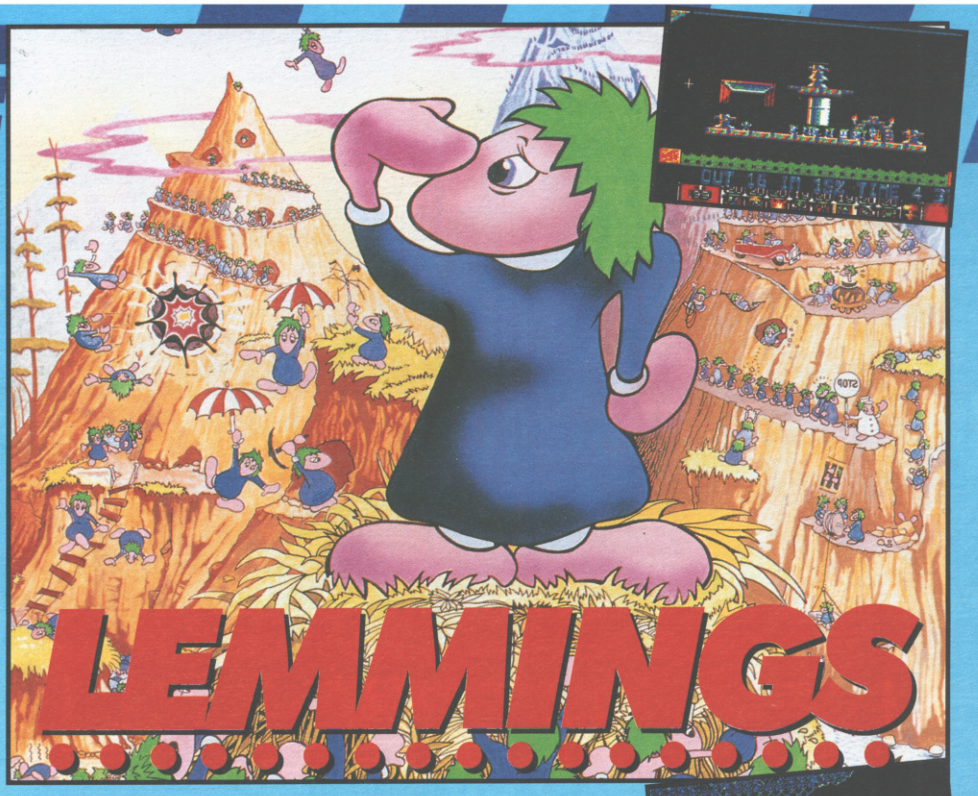
MASTER SYSTEM

PUZZLE

BY SEGA
£TBA



Lemmings are small, cute, rodent-type creatures with an irresistible urge to throw themselves off tall objects or dispose of themselves in some equally gruesome way. Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to use each Lemming's particular skill to save the numskulls and guide them safely through the 100-odd assault course-styled levels and safely to the exit. It's nowhere near as easy as it sounds!



'ORRIBLE OBSTACLES

You'll never get through all the levels first time, and on some you have to rescue 100% of the rodents to move on. But don't worry, you get as many chances as you like and there's a full password system to let you turn off and come back at a later date. The wealth and variety of the obstacles and graphical backgrounds will amaze you and you won't be able to put the game down!

What a brilliant conversion of a classic game! The key to success is to use the limited amount of skills from the bank on offer at the beginning of each stage. You are only given a few of each of the different 'workers' and with these you have to plan which ones are needed in each particular field - and while that might not sound too daunting, it gets a little hectic when you're given the bare minimum of goodies to use. Forward planning is vital as more often than not you'll find yourself in a jam with none of the Lemmings needed for the job at hand. It's cliche now, but it really is the most addictive game you've ever come across and more fun than a day trip to Disney Land. Regardless of what system it's on Lemmings is such a great concept it just can't fail, and on the Master System it's fab!

STEVE KEEN

TRICKS AND TRAPS

It's not just bottomless pits and precarious ledges that the little blighters have to be led over. Later stages include tiny traps such as guillotines, hangmen's nooses and exploding pressure pads! The animation on the tiny sprites is brilliant, and although they only stand a few pixels high they ooze more charm and character than Bob Monkhouse on Full

LOADS OF LEMMINGS

There are eight Lemmings to choose from - diggers, builders, tunnellers, blockers, floaters, exploders, climbers and pickax wielders, but you can make any single Lemming a super dude by giving him more than one skill. They enter the course by a trap door at the top of the screen and drop down towards the ground at a variable rate. The best thing to do is slow them right down until you've got a safe path constructed and then let the followers flood out!

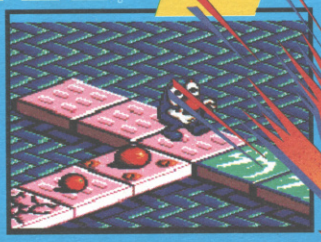
KA-BLOOEY

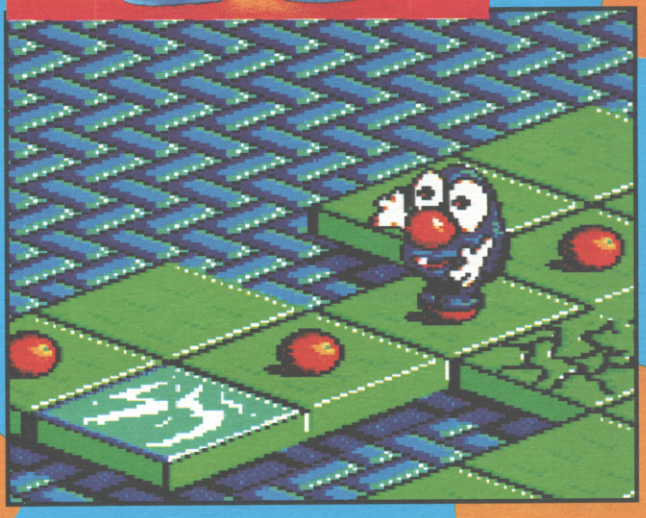
SUPER NINTENDO

STRATEGY

BY KEMCO
£45.00

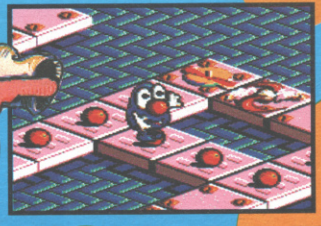
What? A Super Nintendo game that doesn't put you in the cockpit of the galaxy's niftiest battlecruiser? You don't need any of that, because this is the world of Ka-Blooey, where the action really is explosively charged. Become Spud, whose sole task in life is to toddle around, blowing up bombs. Big bombs, small bombs, some as big as yer 'ead - he's got to get rid of them all without blowing himself up. Not the best existence in the world - even worse when you discover that, when a bomb is exploded, it takes with it a chunk of the playfield. Help m'boab!





DETONATION'S WHAT YOU NEED

Bombs come in all shapes and sizes in Ka-Blooey, and it's in figuring out which order to blow them up in that makes the game so bloody difficult. Each different bomb destroys a certain number of tiles which go to make up the playing area - the smallest device removes the least tiles, while the biggest one wipes out a large expanse of the screen. Not only that, but if other bombs are in the radius of an explosion, it too will go boom, taking yet more tiles with it. The trick is; where to stand and which to detonate without being either blown to bits or left with nothing to stand on?

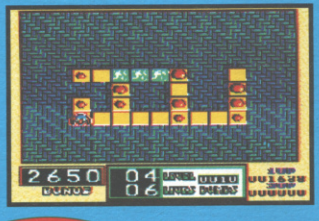


BLOB-A-JOB

As if things weren't difficult enough, you've also got a few bad guys to get rid of. Take, for example, the marauding gang of yellow blobs which shuffle around the tiled play screen in a set pattern - they're rather sad and can be easily avoided. Not such a pushover is the rampaging red blob which bounces around the screen in a random pattern - to get a fair impression of its actions, try getting a look at Rand at around nine 'o' clock on a Friday night!

TILES AND TRIBULATIONS

There are an absolute mass of different tiles to step on and fall off of in Ka-Blooey, from the standard tile which will blow up in an explosion, to those which allow you to transport bombs around .There are indestructible tiles, icy tiles which will have you slipping all over the place, as well as tiles with special powers such as teleports that transport you to other parts of the level, switches which will produce new blocks and even a spinner that hurls you off in a random direction!



I wasn't too excited by the prospect of a rather dull-looking strategy game featuring a blue Mr Potato Head blowing things up, but I have to admit this is actually very good! Ka-Blooey's graphics, although simplistic, are nice and large and the 3D works well. There are some reasonable tunes in there, complimented by lots of pleasing spot effects. But the real winner is Ka-Blooey's high addiction level. The game get ridiculously difficult on later levels and, by the time you get to level twenty, you'll be tearing your hair out - and there's still one hundred and ten more to go! A cart that deserves to be ranked up there with classics like Lemmings and Tetris!

PLATFORM

BYSEGA
£34.99

Now get a grip! The movie Batman 2 was given so much hype that even the Turtles turned blue with envy! And lets be honest, if it wasn't for the pulling power of Catwoman in her bin bag, the film would have been in trouble. The plot was thinner than Paul Daniels' hair and the action about as dramatic as a Roger Moore acting lesson! However, the film made huge amounts of green backs and Sega are hoping that our generosity in paying out to see such a pile of trash will extend to splashing out for a copy of the game as well. Make no mistake Batman 2 - The Return is as close a film license as you can get, so expect to see all your own favourites and a few more besides.

Lawks! Batman's a far cry from the grey tight-clad Adam West of my day. He's looks like he's thrown away his Man From C&A catalogue and now does all his window shopping in GQ and Esquire! The thing about this game is that it's so tame. Batman's got a ton of fab weapons, but there just aren't enough badies to use them on. The sprites are huge especially the end of level villains, but most of the levels only have a couple of goon types to kill and the platforms are very bland. This would be forgivable if the game-play and controls weren't such a chore. The character just doesn't do what you want when you want him to and when you're jumping precariously from roof top to window ledge the last thing you want is to perform a double salco on the joy pad to get you safely across! All the potential for a great game is there, but instead of packing the action in the dweebs have made a grey day in Dartford look like a weekend in Vegas with this. Nice sonics though.

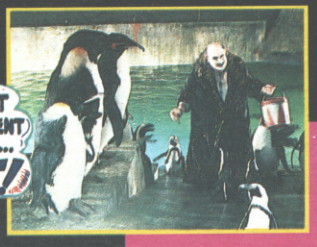
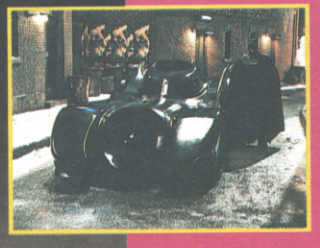
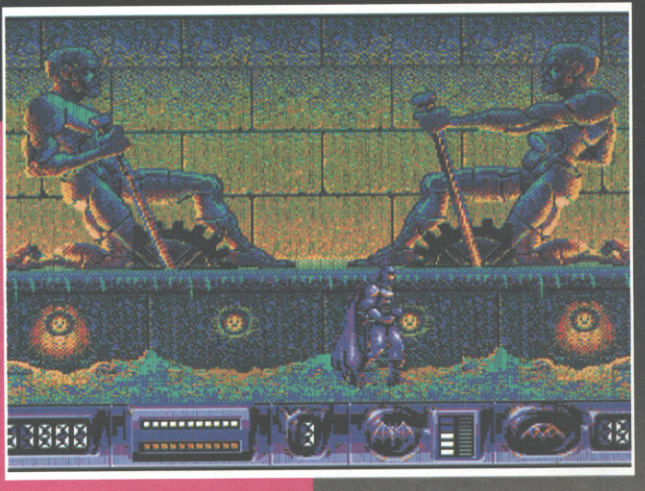
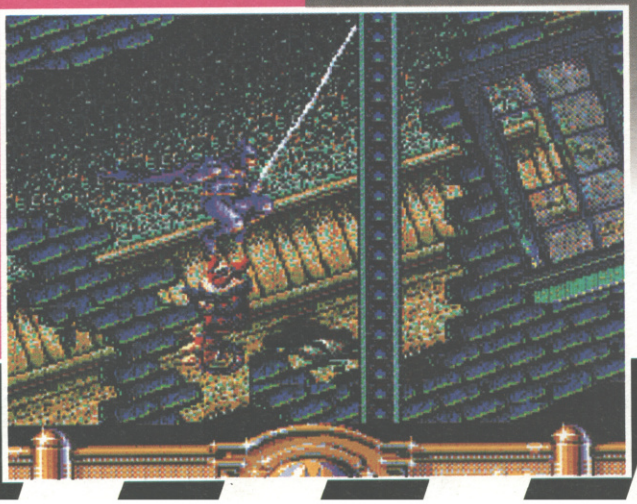
BATMAN RETURNS









THWACK!!

Not everything's perfect in Batman 2 - a couple of gripes are the grainy graphics and lack of detail. Some platforms are so badly defined that you'll walk right over them only to fall through the floor back to where you started. The first stage is set on the window sills and ledges of Gotham City's sky scrapers at night and if you can get through that without a single blunder you're a better bat than me matey!

KAPOW!!

Bruce Wayne's a bit of a stiff in real life, but once he slips into his designer rubbers he's as flexible as an Access credit card! He bounds all over the screen, jumping from platform to platform kicking and punching anything that gets in his way. If things get too far out of his reach a quick stab on the joypad and the winged wonder flys/swings through the air just like his Marvel bunk-mate Spiderman!

ZOCK!!!

Fans of the old Batman and Robin TV series will be more aware than most that the caped crusader carries a huge amount of gadgets in his 'Utility Belt.' By pressing Start you can dive into this 'belt of tricks' and pull out a crazy combination of paralysing bombs, homing Baterangs, standard forward flying Baterangs, horizontal grappling hooks and the incredible Bat Release which lets loose a swarm of little blood suckers that latch onto an enemy and rob them of their juices!

WHAM!!

Familiar faces rub shoulders with the more obscure villains. Gargoyles, jesters, machine gun totting clowns on unicycles, flame haired knife throwing women and baseball-wielding cronies bounce the Bat from scene to scene whilst the more infamous characters like the Penguin and Catwoman are reserved for the end of level battles. Catwoman tumbles onto the screen with her acrobatic flips and gives the masked crusader a good lashing, whilst the Penguin attacks from above on his helli-umbrella.

SMASH!!

Batman is incredibly tough and if you don't collect plenty of pick-ups to refill your belt you won't see the night out. The options screen makes life easier with up to seven lives per game and a choice of control methods and there are unlimited continues, but you can still expect to be cracking your joypad on the side of the console in frustration after running dry of weapons and being left totally defenceless.

I hate games that cheat. You know the type, when you clearly do one thing and the computer does another. Well this is just such a game. It's not that the control system is complicated it's just that it's fiddly. The platforms are positioned in such away that one small mistake at the wrong moment and you lose a life. In order to get across extra large pits you have to jump up and extend Batman's cape to glide over the hole using two separate buttons on the pad pressed quickly in succession. Naturally, once you're over the pit after the first press there's no turning back and if your second stab is not spot on it's back to the beginning and diced bat for tea! Some of the effects are great, though - the animation of Cat Woman and the subtly lighted street backdrops are brill. Also when Batman dies he pulls his cloak around him like a cocooned bat and disappears in a puff of smoke. It was all there for the making, but somewhere along the line the programming fell apart. Not bad, but it could have been a lot better.

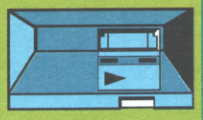
CVG REVIEW

MASTER SYSTEM

PLATFORM

BY SEGA
£29.99



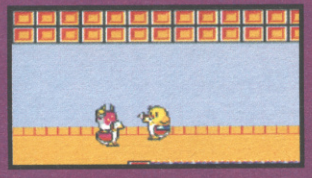
If there's one thing which really upsets New Zealanders it's being mistaken for Australians. If there's another, it's people not knowing what a kiwi is. Well, in case you're still in the dark, a kiwi is a sort of little yellow thing with wings and it's a really important bird because it can, well, run around and flap them a lot. The game features tons of little kiwis which have been kidnapped by a evil walrus and caged up all over the place. But help is at hand, because Tiki has managed to escape and now he's out to rescue his pals.

New Zealand Story on the Master System really stands out as a champion laugh. The creatures are well weird and thanks to some great graphics and animation you can't wait to see what's lurking around the next corner. Gameplay proves a bit lame at times as you tend to get stuck on one particular section that robs you of all your lives and chucks you back to the beginning, but then again you wouldn't want to finish it first time round would you? Nicely presented and, for such a simple game, surprisingly addictive. Not a masterpiece by any stretch, but what it lacks in substance it makes up for in fun.

STEVE KEEN

BACK PASSSAGE

New Zealand Story's far from easy, but just to make it a little different you can run riot throughout the levels via tons of secret passages and teleportation holes. The holes aren't always there, they'll only appear if you kill the cretinous critters bombarding you with flack in a particular order. Be quick or be dead!



NEW ZEALAND STORY

MONSTERS AHOY!

All the worlds have different themes and the monsters change accordingly. Early levels are a cinch, with little birds sliding around the platforms easily dispatched with a single shot. Later on you'll have to cross arrows with flying bears, bomb throwing blobules and even smack haddock submersed under water with the walrus's terrifying aquatic agents. Ooo-er!

ARMED AND READY

Quite how a fuzzy puffball of feathers is able to handle a thermo nuclear laser bazookoid is beyond me, but handle it he does and a whole host of other weapons and equipment to boot. The platforms are riddled with puzzles and quite often you'll come to a grinding halt with the solution to your problem in front of your nose. The Kiwi can pilot rockets as well as hovering transportation pads that can be flown around the worlds. Chocks Away!

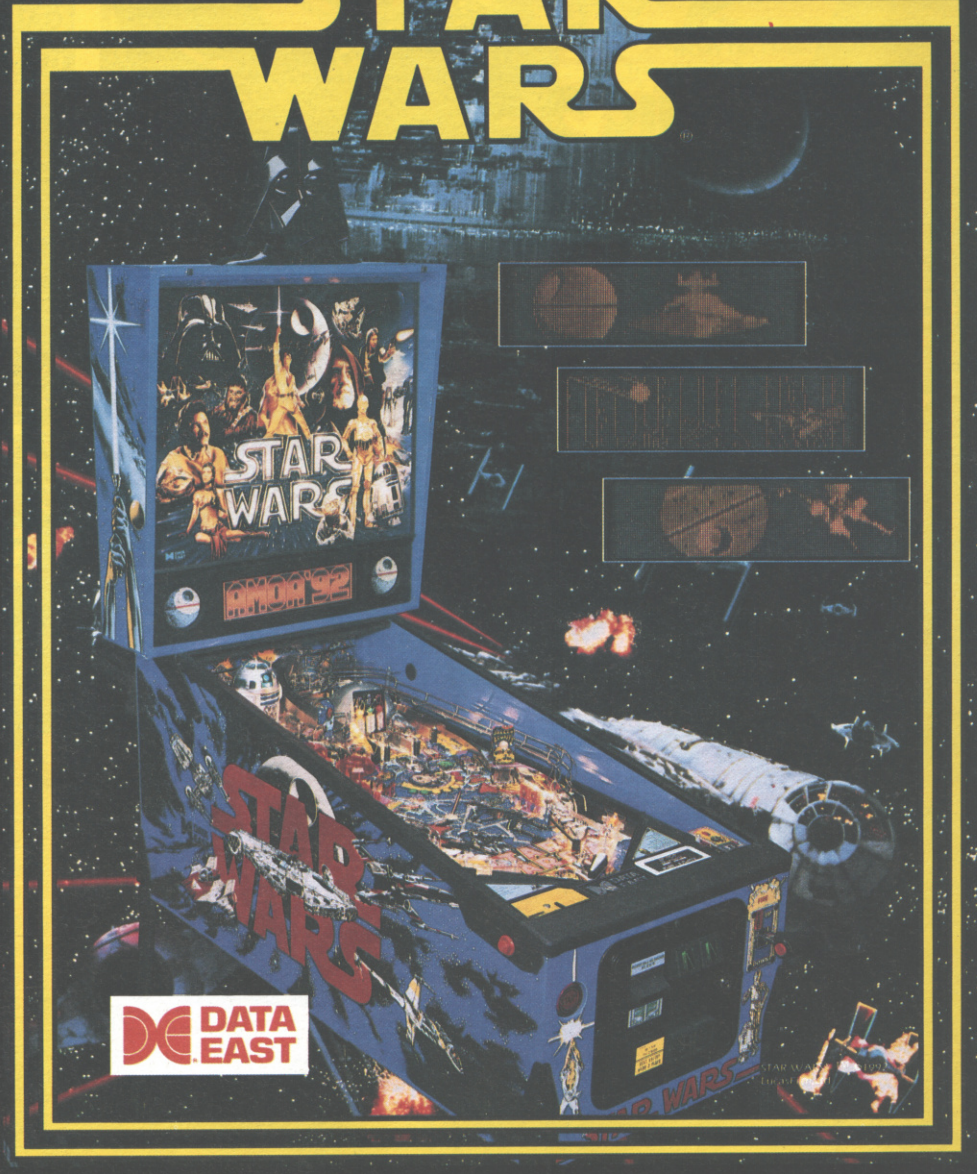
ARCADE ACTION!

Right now there's a huge resurgence of interest in Star Wars memorabilia, games and stuff. So, what better time for Data East to launch a pin-table based on one of the greatest films of all time? The movie's is now more than 15 years old, and pinball technology's come a very long way since then! Bloody good job too, because now they can start to do the movie justice - and here's the first one to prove it!

A LONG TIME AGO

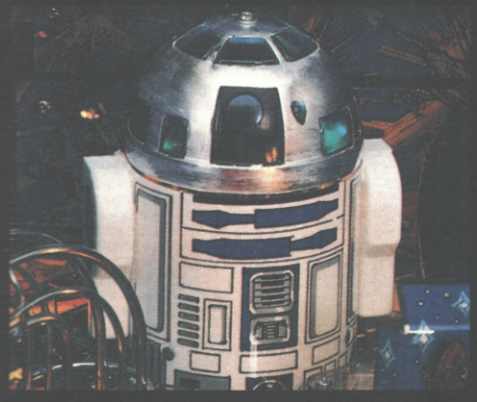
IN A GALAXY FAR, FAR AWAY

STAR WARS



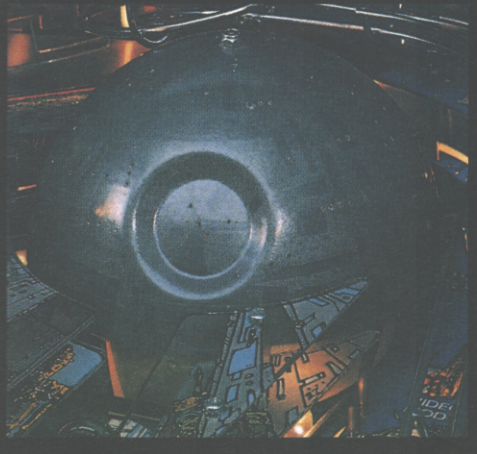
JOIN THE SPACE RACE

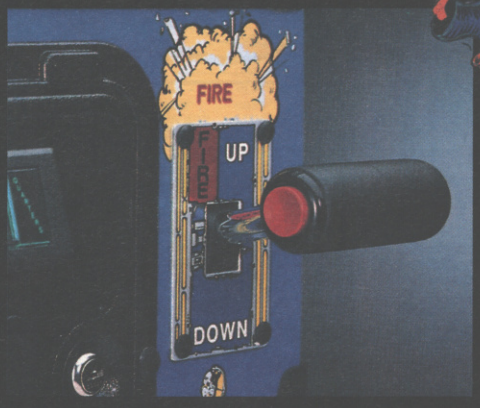
This new table is a space age feast for the eyeballs! Almost every character from the film can be found amongst the detailed art work on the play field and the incredibly colourful painted back glass, although a lot of the images are in fact from the other movies. There's also a big moulded plastic head, modelled on Darth Vader, on top of the cabinet with flashing eyes to attract players!



BONUS BONANZA!

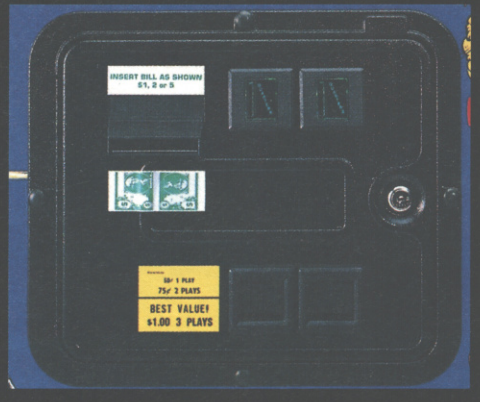
The table is packed with features and bonuses. You can collect Jabba's bounty by smacking the ball into the right hand panel or send it on a rollercoaster ride by shooting it straight up the middle of a ramp placed at the top of the play-field. The more points you get the faster the R2-D2 model in the corner jumps up and down and the quicker he rotates his head. Keep on going and the his frenetic beeps and blips become louder and louder





WELL CONNECTED

The ball enters the play field via a shaft at the side and a curious lever which looks like a gear stick with a button on the side. The stick actually raises and lowers the Death Star, which houses a hidden hole inside it just big enough for an eagle-eyed young Jeddi to shoot a ball into. The Star has to be raised for the shot to be a success and if you achieve the task the ball will get caught in the tractor beam and you'll be rewarded with an incredible amount of multi-ball antics, as silver spheres judder and ricochet all over the table at once!



DOUBLE THE FUN

Most tables have LED graphical displays, but Star Wars goes one stage further and actually incorporates games with asteroids and a Tie Fighter shoot 'em up, with you controlling the laser targeting system of an X-Wing Fighter with the left and right flippers! All the usual bumpers, chutes and light combinations beef up the score, but it's no substitute for getting at those special effects.

Data East are an American company and as yet there are only two machines available in the country, and both of those are currently being shown to trade and press members only, but advanced orders are set to rocket through the roof and Star Wars has become the first pin-table to include the facility to take notes as well as coins into its belly. Naturally the game is crawling with sampled sound effects and speech, so expect to find the game calling to you with classic lines like 'May the Force be with you' and 'Watch your back kid!' from the corner of an arcade near you very soon! Check out this table as soon as you can, and if you're a Star Wars fan play it NOW!

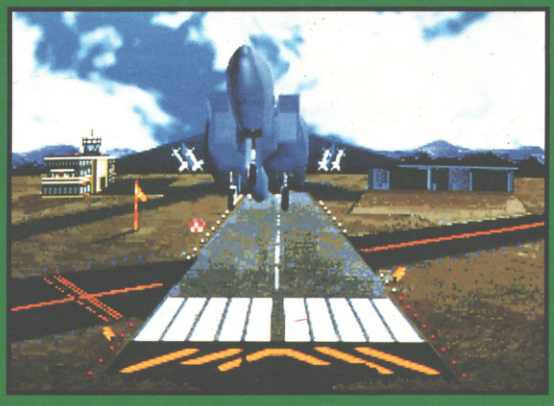
F-15

NES

Zip into your full combat flight suit, fire up the afterburners and rip into the skies with Microprose's latest release. F-15 Strike Eagle is a fully controllable 3D combat aircraft sim that'll have you pushing the G-forces through the roof! Microprose have long been known for their incredible state-of-the-art simulations on the Amiga and PC computers, and now they're all set to dive into the console market as well. F-15 has appeared on most home computers already, but the cartridge version will be the company's first venture onto the NES.

F-15 III

PC



One of the most popular fighter sims of all time gets the overh aul treatement soon with the latest in the F-15 series on the PC - and from what we've seen of the game it's already looking a winner. Players can choose the targets they want to lock in on and perform all kinds of aerial stunts and manoeuvres whilst embarking on seven different missions. Amass points by destroying aggressors and proving your worth in the combat zone. The game will contain revolutionary polygon and bitmapped graphics and incredibly realistic dog fighting action! There will also be a two player mode allowing two players to fly side by side in the same mission!

REX NEBULAR

PC

More PC madness comes in the form of Rex Nebular And The Cosmic Gender Bender! A futuristic adventure set on a distant fictional planet somewhere in our galaxy. Rex is a brass balled interstellar traveller and womaniser extraordinare, who crash lands on a planet entirely populated by bizarre alien women! Sounds like a dream come true, but Rex is no way near prepared for the adventures that await him. The game features stunning graphics, lip-synched digitised speech and tons of animation, puzzles and mysteries to solve. Check it out!

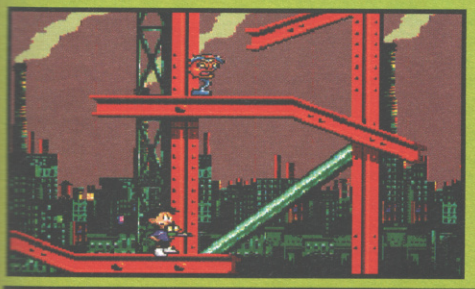
HARRIER JUMP JET

AMIGA/PC

Furthering their reputation as one of the greatest flight sim creators, Microprose release Harrier Jump Jet for the Amiga and PC. Again the game will feature detailed 3D effects, but this time the programmers have made use of Gouraud shading, a process that smooths out the rough edges of polygons to create incredible new shades and realism. You'll be able to fly over beautifully contoured landscapes, between mountains and through valleys as well as enter into combat in the game arenas of, Hong Kong, The Falklands and the fictitious Nord Kapp, dog-fighting with the best the enemy can offer. Sounds like a blast!

MICK AND MACK GLOBAL GLADIATORS

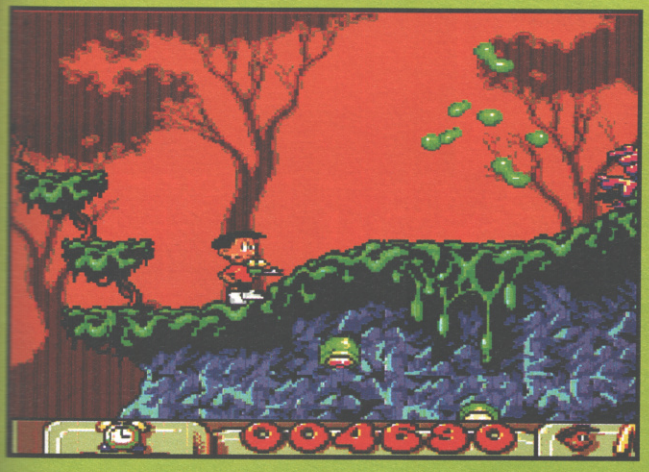
MEGADRIVE

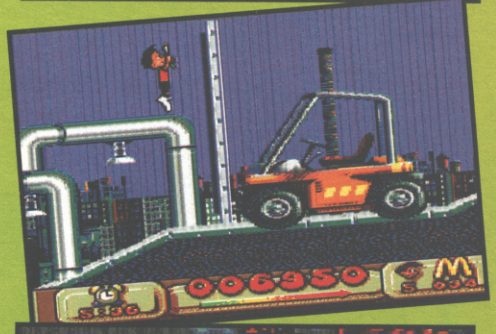


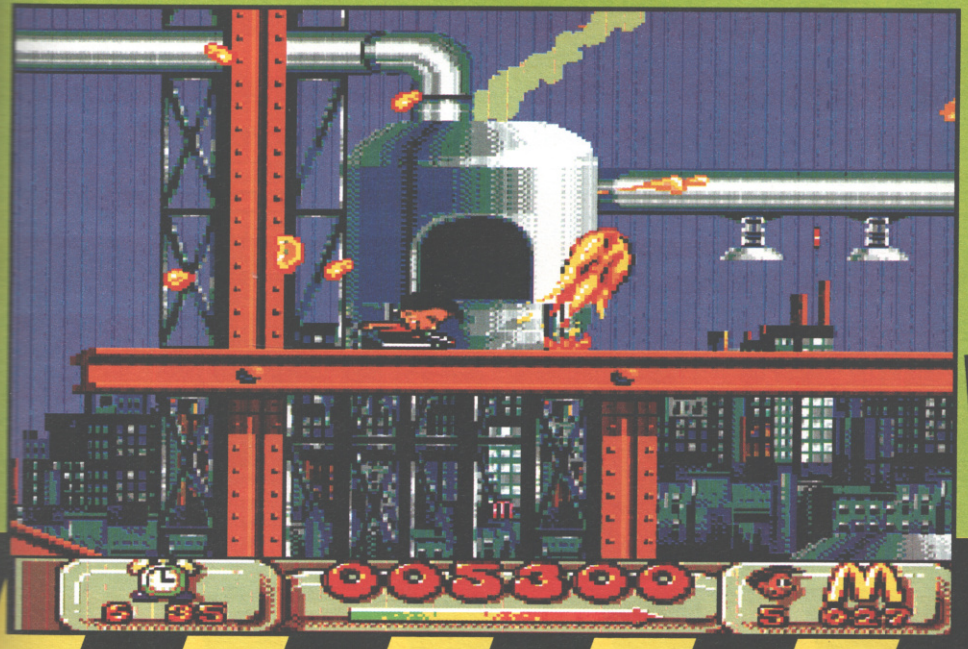
McDonalds isn't the first company that springs to mind when it comes to the ecological state of the Earth - although they have stopped using CFCs in their polystyrene burger boxes - but hey, they're making an effort to promote the cause of the Greenies in conjunction with Virgin, in the form of Mick And Mack - Global Gladiators. These two hip 'n' trendy kids have appeared in cartridge form before, in the Nintendo game McDonaldland, but now they've crossed the great divide and here they are, coming soon to a Megadrive near you!

The object of the game is to take control of either Mick or Mack and systematically destroy the pollutants on each stage. Collecting the little McDonalds logos littered around the screens give the boys bonus points and, at the end of each three-stage level, there's a bonus game to tackle.

The CVG boys have already had a good old blast on pre-production versions of the game and already we can tell you that this is a great title. Graphics, as you can see, are fab, with loads of excellent animation - and some of the tunes are incredible! A surefire hit when it hits the streets early in the New Year, we'll be bringing you the full Review in a not-far-away issue of CVG!







STREETFIGHTER II

● AMIGA ● PC ● C64 ● SPECTRUM ●

Streetfighter II is, quite rightly, causing a commotion all across the world and, with everyone literally foaming at the mouth at the prospect of the game of the millennium coming to their machines courtesy of US Gold, what else could we do but bring you the latest up-to-the-minute info on what on promises to be the conversion of the Nineties!

IT'S NIPPY, IT IS

Seeing as none of the sixteen bit computers can match up to the power of the Super Nintendo's turbo nutter custom chips, it would be fair to assume that Streetfighter II on these machines won't be as fast and furious as the console version in terms of gameplay - or so you'd imagine. Although there's some degradation in speed, there's no way this baby can be described as slow. Programmers Creative Materials have slaved long and hard to get the gaming fairly zipping along and, although there have inevitably had to be some graphic omissions, such as the animating backdrops, at least there's no horrible, jerky scrolling in sight.

WE JUST CAN'T WAIT!

The CVG boys are drooling at the prospect of Streetfighter II on home computer formats - every new demo that comes into the office looks better than the last! With the game scheduled for release in time for you lot to drag it out of your Christmas stocking, there's not much time for Creative Materials to put the final touches to their masterpiece - we'll be giving the completed versions the CVG treatment as soon as it's finished, in the form of an all-formats Review. Miss it and we'll send Tim Boone round to your house, complete with his Edmond Honda sumo jockeys!

YOU'VE GOT THE LOT!

The most welcome news will undoubtedly be that all the characters appear on all the formats - even the Speccy! There was a worrying whisper going round that some of the battlers would not make into the final version, or that - shock horror - one of the four bosses would be left out. But fear not - no such travesty is likely to occur and you can expect to see all the street fighters in there.

GET A GRIP

The most frequently-asked question pertaining to the home computer conversions of Streetfighter II must be how all the moves can be accessed using just a single button joystick. There were many rumours that US Gold would introduce a special six-button stick to cope with the task, but that idea was eventually chucked out of the window. There are currently a number of different methods under development, all designed to make play that much easier. Some methods will have the player using keys as well as the stick, while another allows sole use of the joystick with some of the moves omitted to compensate.

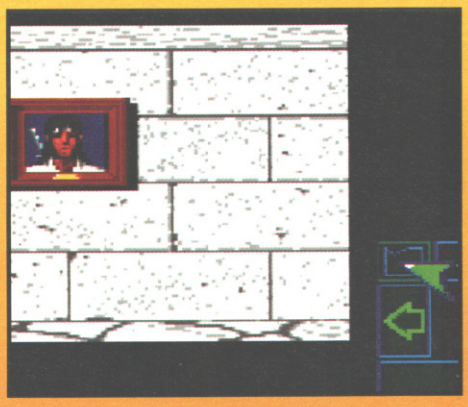
DUNGEON MASTER

● SUPER NINTENDO ●



Sword and sorcery slashes its way onto the Super Nintendo in the New Year, when JVC complete their cartridge conversion of the hit computer game, Dungeon Master. This is the game which changed the face of role-playing games and earned its programmers a mint. First-person perspective 3D graphics portray events as you take on the persona of four fantasy fighters in a massive, multi-level labyrinth full of monsters and mayhem. The name of the game is experience accumulation - almost every action earns your characters experience points, and the more points you gain, the more powerful your party becomes.

There's a wide variety of characters to select and control, from fighters who are, by their very nature, rather handy with a range of different weapons, to magicians whose spells become more and more powerful the more experience they receive. And they'll need all the power they can get once they start delving deeper into the game, for down in the later levels are all sorts of weird and not-very wonderful creatures to destroy. It's kill or be killed in Dungeon Master - from the outset your brave battlers must deal with monsters such as mummies, wolves, skeleton warriors and strange blobs of jelly - and these are the softies! But don't worry too much - previous parties have left behind a wide array of objects for your bunch to pick up and use to assist them in their adventures.

Super Nintendo owners will be pleased to note that, after a fairly in-depth playtest of a nearly-finished cart, the CVG boys found little difference between this and the original Amiga and ST versions. What that should mean, when the game is released in the first quarter of 1993, is late nights ahoy for weeks, nay months, at a time. Don't go away - CVG will be bringing you the full review of Super Nintendo Dungeon Master just as soon as we can!

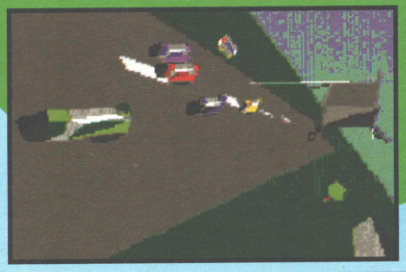
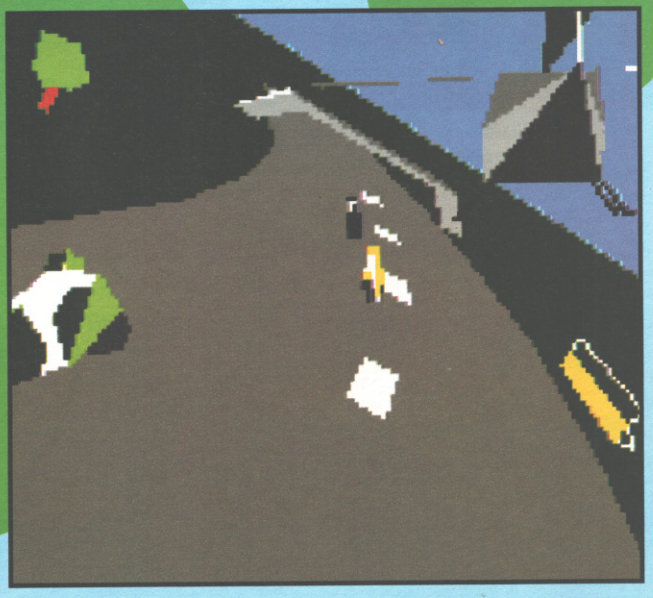
NO SECOND PRIZE

AMIGA

Motorbike games aren't the ten-a-penny titles on Amiga that car racers are - Super Hang-On and EA's brand new Road Rash are the only ones that immediately spring to mind. Perhaps it's because software companies don't think that this fast-paced sport can't be recreated well on computer. Not so, according to Thalion, who are just about to unleash their polygon-based sim No Second Prize onto a speed-crazed public - and what a top treat it is!

The somewhat flimsy plot has you racing against five other bikers from around the globe, each hoping to win the one available prize of the only motorbike of its kind in existence - but the storyline takes a back seat to the game itself! We are talking fast 3D graphics here, with you controlling your machine around a huge assortment of tracks. Four different cameras relay the action back to the player in replay mode and, although the game is mouse-controlled only, it's surprisingly easy to ride. Keep an eye open for No Second Prize in the shops - it's the game real racers have been waiting for!





MASTER OF DARKNESS

MASTER SYSTEM

Vampires are rather nasty things aren't they? I mean, helping themselves to peoples' blood, just because they can't be bothered to get to the local Arkwrights. Mind you, they have inspired some top films - I mean, where would we all be without The Lost Boys? Anyway the story to this latest piece of cartridge crackery goes like this; one hundred years ago a young student was sitting around playing with his ouija board when he received a strange message, instructing him to go the Thames to meet the killer Dracula. Doing as he was told, the young one trotted off to the riverside, unaware of the dangers that lay ahead. As you might imagine, this exciting plot translates to a platform-based game of monster mashing, but from what we've seen it isn't too bad. Do battle with the Dark One's minions, from hounds of hell (there's another top vamp film - Zoltan, Hound Of Dracula) to undead servants of the neck-biter (while you're at it, try catching the Dead trilogy by George Romero - fab stuff). Master of Darkness could be every Drac-fan's dream when it's released in the New Year - the moody graphics are looking very good indeed and gameplay is tough and challenging. We'll bring you the full Review the second the game leaves Sega HQ - in the meantime, get yer crucifix out and chew on a few cloves of garlic.

USING A TV?

Switch to a monitor and SEE WHAT YOU'RE MISSING!

If you are currently using your Amiga or ST with a domestic television set, then you are missing out on picture quality.

Unfortunately, because your TV is used to receiving inferior UHF transmissions from the airwaves, it only has a UHF socket. So, your computer has to downgrade its high quality digital RGB (Red, Green, Blue) signal to UHF to enable your TV to receive it. However, because your TV can only display using RGB, it has to convert the UHF signal back to RGB before it can put a picture on the screen. Of course, every time you convert from one signal to another, there is a loss of quality which means that the final picture on the TV is not as good as the original signal from your computer.

You can overcome this with a monitor, which has an RGB socket, not UHF. Your computer will recognise this, and send its original RGB signal to the monitor which will display the image directly to the screen with no loss of quality.

The Philips 8833 is the best selling colour monitor for the Commodore Amiga and Atari ST. Ideal for game playing, it offers excellent colour graphics and has stereo audio speakers for enhanced stereo output from the Amiga and ST-E. The performance and reliability of the 8833 is exceptional, which is why we are confident to offer 12 months ON-SITE warranty with every Philips 8833 monitor. Plus, every 8833 from Silica comes with FREE Lotus Turbo Challenge 2 software, all for only £199 inc VAT.

GAME BOY™

Ever Have A Hunch You Could Be A Hero?

Well here's your chance! The exquisite Esmerelda has been taken captive by the hideous and heinous Halfenpounder. And nobody - but nobody - is willing to risk the perils of his trap-infested castle to rescue her from the highest bell tower. Nobody, that is, except you - Super Hunchback! You may be mad, or you may be miraculous; but only you can negotiate the frightful forest of runaway logs, the Spike-filled castle moat, and the dark dungeons and demonic denizens of the castle itself. Just jump up and ring the big bells to keep advancing... if you dare. But beware - Halfenpounder has the biggest bells of all, and he won't hesitate to drop one on you!
